TARIFF REFORM.

Democratic Day at Beautiful Lakeside.

Breckenridge Fails to Put in an Appearance

And Rise-Up Jim Campbell Fills His Shoes.

Splendid Address Before an Intelligent Audience.

Ohio's Governor a Man Equal to Any Emergency — McKinley to Try and Defend a High Tariff To-day.

Lakeside, July 30.—(Special)—Instead of religion and science, the summer resorters at this pleasant place were treated to a tariff discourse, and the discourser was Ohio's present and future governor, James E. Campbell, yesterday.

The day was democratic day, in the sense that it was devoted to discussion of tariff reform, but on the regular program of the assembly, yesterday and to-day are called political economy days.

The management had secured a promise from Congressman Breckenridge of Kentucky that he would be here, and therefore he was stated for an address on free trade.

Gov. Campbell was asked to preside at the meeting and he arrived at 2 o'clock. Mr. Breckenridge for some occult reason failed to arrive, and upon the governor devolved the task of filling his place.

Although the onerous duty was totally unexpected by him, as in all cases he arose to the emergency, and the way he punctured the vicious doctrine of protection for an hour and a half, was good for democratic ears.

The governor arrived at Sandusky at noon yesterday and barely had time to reach the dock before tue steamer left for Lakeside. Indeed, he came aboard so quietly and totally unaccompanied that the little steamer Wheele was several miles toward her destination before it was known that Ohio's chief executive was on board.

He finally walked out of the cabin upon the afterdeck, and in a moment was surrounded by people eager to grasp him by the hand.

When the boat reached Lakeside the docks and shores were crowded with people eager for a peep at Fighting Jimmy.

He was nearly the last man to leave the vessel on the arm of Dr. Belt, and as the crowd became aware that the unobtrusive looking gentleman with an ordinary straw hat on his head was the governor of Ohio, cheers broke forth which startled the quiet Methodist summer resort.

Cheers are unusual here, especially husky political ones, and the demonstration evinced the fact that the governor is a prime favorite with the best class of people in Ohio.

Preceded by a brass band and followed by the vast crowd, the governor started toward the tabernacle which was already filled by patient would-be auditors. Besides the summer population of the place, hosts of democrats from all over northern Ohio were there to listen to the arguments in favor of an economic system which promises lower taxes and prosperity to a greater degree.

Gov. Campbell was escorted upon the platform and in a few moments both stage and vast auditorium were packed to the limit.

The choir (by the way, an excellent one) sang the Star Spangled Banner, and then Dr. Leroy Belt arose and called the immense audience to order and made a few introductory remarks.

Just to the rear of the Dr. and Gov. Campbell were seated a number of the representative democrats of northwestern Ohio, while at the side of the governor sat Hon. W. H. Gibson, of Tiffin. Among those present might be mentioned Senator Zimmerman, of Fremont; Representative Bruce, of Ottawa county; Lieut. Gov. Marquis, and Judge Vest, of Bellefontaine. Hon. Frank Dougherty, of Kenton, Hon. T. C. Cole, of Bowling Green; and Col. W. A. Taylor, of Columbus. Dr. Belt in introducing the governor said:

"Some time ago we conceived the idea of dedicating two days to free trade and protection and calling them political economy days. I called upon Gov. Campbell and asked if he would preside over one of the days, which would be devoted to a discussion of the principles of free trade. He promised that he would.

"I then secured Congressman Breckenridge to talk on that topic and Hon. Wm. McKinley to speak on protection. The governor promised that he would preside, and I thought he would be a good card. [Laughter.]

"He is here and will speak in Mr. Breckenridge's place. Major McKinley will speak on protection to-morrow afternoon, and we have sandwiched the Farmers' alliance between them. [Laughter.]

"Since these arrangements have been made both Gov. Campbell and Major McKinley have been nominated for governor, but we will compel them to behave while here. [Laughter.]

"We dwell in peace and unity here. Those who will not live that way we throw into the lake. [Laughter.]

"I now have the pleasure of introducing to you your governor, James E. Campbell. Let us give him the Chautauqua salute.

When the governor arose and confronted the vast audience on all sides of him, he was first greeted by a sea of waving white handkerchiefs, then by a burst of applause which lasted a minute or two.

It was an inspiring sight, that welcome to Lakeside, and as the young executive of the Buckeye state stood there in that vast tabernacle dedicated to religious and educational purposes, and received the magnificent ovation in his honor, it would be difficult to say what emotions surged through his breast.

The greeting was worthy of the man whom it honored, of the place in which it was given, and of the people who extended it so generously.

It was a non-partisan outburst of Ohio pride in the gallant leader of one of her great parties, her foremost citizen.

When quiet had been restored Governor Campbell said:

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: From the bottom of my heart I thank you for this magnificent greeting. I now know what the Chautauqua salute is. Once before when I attended flower services at one of the Methodist churches in Columbus, I was greeted by the waving of the handkerchiefs of children. I did not then know its significance, but thanks to Dr. Belts' remark, I have been enlightened.

"I did not know I was to come here to make a speech on free trade and am to a certain extent the victim of misplaced confidence. [Laughter].

"I was invited, as I thought, to preside over a democratic mass meeting, but I now find that I am down for a speech.

"You may be somewhat disappointed, but I will not shirk now.

"There are two things that I never fail to do, draw my salary when it is due, and perform the tasks which are imposed upon me by the public, good and bad, to the best of my ability. [Laughter].

"I cannot fill Congressman Breckenridge's place. There are few men in the country who could fill it, but with your kind indulgence I will endeavor to rattle around in it for a little while. [Laughter.]

"I am profoundly impressed with several things here at this Chautauqua of the west. One of the things I am most impressed with is the size and character of this audience.

"I am surprised at the number of ladies present. Where there are so many women there must be much good done and plenty of excellent work going on. [Applause.]

"If Mr. Breckinridge were here I would endeavor to tell you something about him, his scholarly attainments, and the honorable ancestry from which he has descended, but as he is absent I will tell you a few of my observations on the tariff.

"I am not the platform speaker Mr. Breckinridge is. I received my training in this direction principally on the stump, before the people in the hustings.

"I do not know whether I can talk particularly scientifically on this subject of free trade. I have not been a politician so much because of love for the scientific side of politics as I have for the practical results. [Laughter.]

"I undertake, therefore, to fill the place assigned to my brother from Kentucky, not because I am best fitted of those here to fill it, but because I am the governor of Ohio, and he is naturally to be placed on exhibition occasionally. [Laughter.]

"I believe in free trade in the same sense that the lamented Garfield believed in it. He said: 'I believe in that kind of protection which will ultimately lead to free trade.'" [Laughter.]

The governor then pulled a card from his pocket, saying: "I had a vague suspicion while coming up here on the train this morning that Mr. Breckenridge might possibly fail, and I knew than in case he did I would be drafted. I then proceeded to write an emergency free trade speech, and it's on this card."

He then proceeded in an impromptu manner to compare the terms, free trade and protection, and discussed the tariff question ably but briefly. He compared the condition of free trade England with highly protected San Domingo, asserting that the greatest prosperity existed in the former country, while in the latter poverty and national distress reigned supreme.

"This country," said the governor, "is fast treading in the paths which San Domingo has trodden and unless our gait is checked we will in time be in the same deplorable condition as that unfortunate country.

"But, says my friend, 'we are highly prosperous.' That is measurably true. But reflect.

"Is it not possible that something else besides a high tariff has had something to do with our national prosperity?

"Is it not possible that besides the customs house, the great natural resources of the country, the industry of its people and the blessings of Providence have had something to do with our prosperity?

"The protectionists claim that wages are higher in those countries where the highest protective duties are levied. In answering this argument we have only to remember what Senator Fry, of Maine, said was the result of an investigation of the subject, viz.: that wages were higher in England than in any other European country.

"In free trade England, according to Senator Fry, men are better paid than the wage earners in highly protected Germany, Italy and France.

"Free intercourse with the states is profitable, in fact necessary, and if this condition of affairs is conducive to prosperity, free intercourse with the nations of the world, as nearly as it could be practically established, would be conducive to prosperity to a greater degree."

The governor proceeded to speak logically on the inequality of high taxes unjustly levied, and stated that were custom houses established on our state lines, this nation would soon be in the condition of San Domingo.

"This country, in my opinion, will for years remain prosperous in spite of the Chinese wall of protection, and we may thank the blessings of Providence for it."

Gov. Campbell spoke fully two hours, and it was the unanimous opinion that few more substantial and effective low tariff speeches have been made in Ohio. The governor may not be as eloquent as some of the high tax orators, but what he says counts, and when he makes a point everybody sees it.

At the conclusion of his address he was the recipient of round after round of applause.

To-day the great champion of protection and the republican candidate for governor will be here and will tell the learned Lakesiders just why it is that high taxes make a prosperous people.

Gov. Campbell carefully refrained during his address from alluding in any manner to politics and political parties.

This afternoon the governor will address a pioneer picnic at Cedar Point.

AFFAIRS OF THE NAVY.

Civil Service Rules Being Put Into Use.

The Department at Washington Has Approved the Work of the Examining Board.

Washington, July 30.—The navy department has approved the report of the board of examiners for foremen or master mechanics at the Mare Island navy yard, and has filled all the positions by the appointment of the candidates the board recommended. In the case of N. G. Hilton, designated for the position of master shipwright, D. Harrington for master ship fitter, C. J. Phelps for master shipsmith and M. G. Winchell for master plumber, whom the board stated as being the best qualified candidates that appeared, but as not possessing the special knowledge desirable for the positions, the department has made temporary appointments.

The board designates the following individuals as the best qualified for the respective places, viz:

Master shipwright, N. G. Hilton, Vallejo, Cal.; master joiner, Charles Daly, Vallejo, Cal.; master shipfitter, Daniel Harrington, Oakland, Cal.; master shipsmith, Charles J. Phelps, Vallejo, Cal.; master plumber, M. G. Winchell, Vallejo, Cal.; master boatbuilder, Thomas Vice, Vallejo, Cal.; quarterman caiker in charge, J. W. Jamison, San Francisco; quarterman painter in charge, Matthew Canavan, Vallejo, Cal.; quarterman in charge, laborers, J. W. Monroe, San Francisco.

Steam engineering department:

Foreman machinist, E. B. Hussey, Vallejo, Cal.; foreman patternmaker, Aug. M. Street, Vallejo, Cal.; foreman moulder, Henry Demmick, San Francisco, Cal.; foreman boilermaker, George J. Campbell, Vallejo, Cal.; foreman blacksmith, Luke Burke, San Francisco; leading man coppersmith, Charles B. Rand, Vallejo, Cal.

Equipment department:

Master sailmaker, Wm. J. Wood, Vallejo, Cal.; quarterman rigger in charge, John Shean, San Francisco.

Yard and docks department:

Foreman mason, H. E. Dence, Vallejo, Cal.; foreman laborer, Wm. J. Sargent, Vallejo, Cal.; machinist in charge, George W. Morton, Vallejo, Cal.

With reference to certain trades involving special training in the building of hulls of modern steam vessels, the board states that in its opinion none of the candidates presenting themselves possessed the special knowledge desirable. The trades referred to are as follows: Master shipwrights: None of the candidates appearing before the board are fully qualified for the position, owing to their ignorance of iron and steel shipbuilding.

Master shipfitter: None of the candidates appearing before the board evince that knowledge of machinery and machine tools that is desirable for this position, most of the candidates being plate-iron workers.

Master shipsmith: None of the candidates appearing before the board evince that knowledge of modern smith work in steel ship construction that the board deems desirable.

Master plumber: None of the candidates appearing before the board evince that knowledge of plumbing and ventilation desirable in modern naval construction.

CASE OF REPUBLICAN LOVE

For the Hard Working Laboring Man.

Niedringhaus Cares Nothing for Their Troubles.

He Will Import the Laborers to Run His Non-Union Mill and Make Campaign Badges.

St. Louis, July 30.—There was lots of talk at the Niedringhaus rolling mills yesterday. The topic was the situation of the tin-plate workmen in Wales. It is evident that, though Mr. Niedringhaus asserts that he can secure workmen sufficient, he has some doubts about the matter.

The interview with Wm. Weihe, president of the Iron and Steel Workers' association, in which he stated that the importation of tin-plate workers would be a violation of the law, is making the statesman and patriot a little bit uneasy. He is not just sure but that he may be foiled in an attempt to import men to run his tin-plate works.

F. G. Niedringhaus was seen yesterday and said: "This assertion made by Weihe that my importing men would be a violation of the law, and that his organization would fight my attempt to do so, does not amount to anything. Why, it has been known for six months that we have been building a big tin-plate mill here and would want a large number of skilled workmen. Not one has turned up. Now, if there were any in this country it seems to me that I would have received some applications for a job."

It was suggested that the workmen in this country were all union men and his mill was a non-union mill. He did not know about that. When asked if he had made a contract for skilled workmen to be imported, he said:

"We have built those mills to run them, and we propose to run them, no matter where the labor comes from. Is it not sufficient that we pay double the wages paid in England to bring all the workmen here we want? You can say what you please, labor will go where best paid, and we pay the best wages here."

Voicing the sentiments of his father, Mr. Tom Niedringhaus said: "We do not fear anything from what Mr. Weihe says about the importation of Welsh tin-plate workers being a violation of the law. Nor do we care anything about the trouble in Wales; in fact, we don't know. We want about forty men to take charge of tin-plate departments and teach American boys to make the tin-plate, and we can get the men as soon as we are ready for them."

"Where will they come from and how have you secured them?"

"Oh, we will get them all right, and it won't take them from eight to ten years to learn to make tin-plate."

Mr. H. L. Niedringhaus, one of the brothers, was down at the rolling mill. When asked about the Weihe interview he said: "Why, it makes me laugh. We will have our works running now in six weeks and we will have the workmen to run them. We will import a few skilled men to teach our American boys to make tin-plate. We use a shorter process than the Welsh and our American-born boys can become experts in eight or ten days. If there are any skilled workmen in this country, as Mr. Weihe claims, we don't know it, and he must prove we are violating the law when we import skilled tin-plate workers."

John Howell, a Welshman, who used to be Niedringhaus' head roller before the strike, was seen. He was a tin-plate worker before coming to America. He said there were a large number of tin-plate workers in this country like himself, but that they were all union men. "You don't hear any kick coming from the union mills," he said. "Now, about importing tin-plate workers, it is easier talked about than done. The workmen on the other side are in constant communication with the workmen on this. They are all members of the union.

"They know about the status of affairs at Niedringhaus' mills almost as well as he, and if he thinks he will get men as easy as he says he is greatly mistaken. They may come and work in union mills, but they will not work in Mr. Niedringhaus' non-union mill.

"Mr. Weihe's stand is a good one, and every member of the association will back him in opposing the importation of contract labor. If you could read some things our Welsh papers say about the Little Tin God you would be quickly convinced that whatever else they may be on the other side they are not ignorant of the fact that it takes skilled men to make tin-plate, and they know we haven't got what we need.

"Another thing: Our brethren on the other side of the Atlantic know all about the way we got duped by Mr. Niedringhaus and the Tin-plate association when they got us to send a committee to Washington to ask for the tariff on tin-plate so that the ways and means committee would think the workmen desired such a tariff.

"That makes them afraid of being duped likewise by Mr. Niedringhaus if they come over to work for him. His explanations make us laugh."

LOCKED IN A TRUNK.

Strange Disappearance of a Little Child.

A Frantic Search for the Little Sufferer Finally Reveals Its Whereabouts.

Haverhill, Mass., July 30.—Mamie, the 2 year old daughter of Jeremiah and Margaret Driscoll, of this city, was the victim of a peculiar mishap, and she passed through an ordeal which her friends will not care to have her again undergo if she lives to be a centenarian.

Mamie was playing with a kitten in a room where there was a large packing trunk left unlocked. Suddenly she was missed, and a search was instituted for her, but she could be found nowhere in the house.

To make matters more distressing, her voice, apparently in distress, could be plainly heard. The family looked everywhere, under beds, under the piazza, in the basement, in the attic, even in the stove, but little Mamie could nowhere be found.

Her parents were frantic. In the meantime the little voice could be heard continually growing fainter, but more agonizing. The mother, who was rushing about frantic, became unconscious and a large crowd was attracted to the scene.

They began literally to tear the house to pieces. Several of the woman were made ill by the excitement. After an hour's hunt the search was temporarily given up and the voice was supposed to have been of ghostly origin.

Last evening the trunk happened to be moved, and, known to be empty, its weight caused it to be examined. In it was lying the child, alive but unconscious. Its mind may be gone, due to the fright. She had crawled in during play and was caught by a snap lock.

Cholera Deaths.

London, July 30.—A Mecca dispatch says there are 140 deaths at that place and 30 at Djeddah from cholera daily.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

How President Harrison Ignores the Law's Intent.

Tiffin, July 30.—(Special)—During the entire administration of President Cleveland Dr. H. K. Spooner, an ardent republican, was retained on the board of pension medical examiners for Seneca county, but President Harrison has slapped the civil service advocates in the face by making the board thoroughly and unanimously republican, the last democrat, Dr. E. J. McCollom, having been bounced yesterday to make room for Dr. T. J. West, republican. This will have the effect of drawing the party lines in this city and county and henceforth the republican candidate for office will find his democratic supporter exceedingly few and very far apart.

A Murderer at Large

Providence, R. I., July 30.—Gertrude White, 13 years old, was probably fatally stabbed with a carpenter's chisel in Johnstown yesterday afternoon by an unknown man. The assailant is described as a man about five feet six inches in height, and weighs about 140 pounds. He is dark complexioned and had on a black derby hat. He is thought to be an Englishman. He is belived to be the same person who tried to criminally assault a little girl near the city limits yesterday.

THE ELLIOTT JURY ROOM.

The Secrets are Becoming Known.

The Citizens are Indignant at the Manner in Which the Verdict Was Reached.

Columbus, O., July 30.—There is much public indignation over the conduct of certain members of the jury in the Elliott murder trial, since some of the secrets of their deliberations are becoming known.

Claude C. Aubert, the man who voted for acquittal on the first ballot, is the object of criticism.

The fact that immediately after the jury first retired he produced a written agreement of secrecy and requested the other jurymen to sign it, is regarded as very peculiar.

When and where he prepared this agreement which he so promptly presented to the others is a mystery. It is intimated that he did not prepare it, and that it had been sent him. No sooner had the doors of the jury room closed than Aubert produced the written agreement, and urged the brethren to sign it that none of their future actions in the case might become known. As the facts in connection with the jury's deliberations gradually leak out public indignation increases.

A peculiar fact is that all those who were contending for a low grade of crime or acquittal were the earnest advocates of secrecy, while those who voted for a verdict in accordance with the law and evidence had no desire to keep the public in the dark as to how they stood on this important question.

While Aubert did not stand alone in his position, yet it is plain that he is responsible for requiring so long a time to reach even a compromise verdict. He alone had the audacity to vote on the first ballot for acquittal. Aubert, it is said, also tried to import evidence into the case, and in view of the fact that he studied law at Ada, tried to convince his fellow jurors that Judge Pugh's rulings as to the newspaper articles were not based upon firm principles of law, and therefore tried hard to nullify the charge of the court.

The opinions of the jurors who opposed his views were treated with contempt. Aubert's conduct from first to last in the jury room is described as that of a presumptuous autocrat and a usurper of the power of the courts, legislatures and attorneys.

Additional facts as to the jury room proceedings are gradually leaking out. It develops that Turney and Coffman, the two jurymen who sided with Aubert in the latter's advocacy of a verdict for manslaughter had been associated with Aubert. About two weeks ago Aubert asked and was granted permission to accompany Turney to the latter's home, where they spent Sunday together. On another occasion Aubert and Coffman remained in the jury room over Sunday together, when all the other jurors had gone home to spend the day.

A close estimate places the court costs of the Elliott murder trial at $15,000.

SITUATION IN THE MINES.

Coal Creek People Displeased With the Outlook

If The Legislature Does Not Repeal the Law the Convicts Will Be Set at Liberty.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 30.—Yesterday, in an interview, Captain Ingraham, who led the miners in their organized movement against the malitia at Briceville, said that the miners are very uneasy over the fact that more convicts have been sent to Coal Creek in addition to the original force taken back, the tacit understanding being that only the original force of prisoners should go back.

Ingraham says in the event of the legislature not repealing the convict lease law the men will turn loose every convict in the state and tell them to skip. The people will keep quiet until told by their officers to move.

Smoke This in Your Pipe.

Paris, July 30.—An evening paper says that if the Franco-Russian alliance results in 1,000,000 Russian troops being placed along the Austro-German frontier and in French and Russian war vessels guaranteeing the passage of the czar's fleet through the Dardanelles it will give English papers something else to comment on in connection with British prestige in the east than to sneer at the absence of cheers for the French republic at St. Petersburg.

SHE WAS A WAYWARD GIRL.

Nan Porter's Death Resulted from Murder.

A Strange Case Which the Criminal Courts of Tennessee May Yet Ferret Out.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 30.—The body of Nan Porter, daughter of S. S. Porter, a wealthy contractor of Hill City, arrived here from Knoxville on Monday morning, accompanied by a death certificate, signed by the secretary of the Knoxville board of health, stating that she had died of morphine poisoning.

In preparing the body for burial two pistol shot wounds were found in the abdomen, while further examination failed to show any evidence of poisoning. She was a most beautiful woman, but had led a wayward life.

One J. W. Beecher, who claimed to be her husband, accompanied the body, but he would not stay for the funeral. Mr. Porter says he is willing to spend his entire fortune to find the murderer.

Sentenced to Death.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 30.—J. W. Davis, the murderer of B. C. Evans, who was sentenced to be hanged an August 10, died in the jail here last night.

ON THE OLD CAMP GROUND

Campbell and McKinley Tented Last Night.

Arm in Arm They Strolled the Shore Together.

Two Men Who are at War Politically, But Who Cherish the Friendship of Each Other.

Lakeside, O., July 30.—The hotel Lake Side was the center of attraction last night. Its corridors were crowded by politicians from all sections of the state and exterior appearances indicated that a state convention was in progress rather than a friendly meeting of the leaders of both parties on neutral grounds.

More distinguished Ohioans were gathered there than ever before wore at Lakeside.

An ex-president of the United States, an ex-governor, a governor, a lieutenant-governor, defeated candidate for governor and two candidates for that position were in the throng.

Ex-president Rutherford B. Hayes, Gov. Campbell, Lieut.-Gov. Marquis, Judge W. H. West of Bellefontaine, Maj. William McKinley, jr., and dozens of other prominent men were at different times standing about the corridors.

After tea, Gov. Campbell met Maj. McKinley in the corridor. The latter had just landed from the boat, and both men removed their hats. The meeting was an extremely pleasant one, the two candidates of the two great parties standing there, the cynosure of all eyes, was one of the features of the busy evening.

After the Major had partaken of his supper the governor and he strolled down along the beach, arm in arm, engaged in conversation.

They were the elephants and everybody looked at the show.

Later in the evening they attended a lecture together at the Assembly building.

One of the most pleasant events of the evening was the reunion of the alumni of Ohio Wesleyan University. Dr. Belt ushered Gov. Campbell and his antagonist into the room, as ex-president Hayes was in the midst of a speech. The two distinguished gentlemen were shown seats together.

Ex-president Hayes then said: "Here we have an unusual spectacle—two rival candidates for Governor, walking about arm in arm, together gathering their strength for the great struggle.

"Look at them, ladies and gentlemen. Would they not make a pretty picture. (Laughter.)

"Both young and handsome, and courageous, and although deadly political enemies, personally the dearest of friends. Pretty soon, however, Gov. Campbell will begin talking about that infernal bill of McKinley's and how it will bankrupt the country, and McKinley will claim that the governor's free trade idea will fill the land with the pauper labor of Europe. (Laughter).

"One of them will be beaten and then he will say he did not care any way. This spectacle is illustrative of our political system."

Gov. Campbell was called for and said: "This is twice to-day that an unfair advantage has been taken of me. I was invited in here a moment ago to attend an alumni meeting but find that we were only brought in to furnish material for president Hayes' speech. I submit that we have not been fairly treated. (Laughter).

I attended college commencements last year for three consecutive weeks. Probably I will do the same thing next year, although Major McKinley may do it for me. We will tell more about that later along.

Major McKinley said that the governor and himself had done some good at least. They had enabled President Hayes to furnish a dry speech, with some very witty allusions. "As to Governor Campbell and myself," said the major, "we are old friends. We have agreed that we will conduct a clean campaign in Ohio this fall, and that neither will feel badly when defeat comes to him.

"We will indulge in no personalities, but will conduct the fight on principle. If he will tell no stories about us we will tell none about him. (Laughter.)

The event was a very happy affair and was brought to a close by the singing of a number of college songs.

If every democrat in Ohio was as confident of victory as the governor, success would await the party in November.

But with the governor's assurance of victory to his friends goes the exhortation that every democrat in Ohio must do something for the ticket between now and November. Said he to a Bee this morning:

"Two years ago I guessed within 800 of my total vote, and while not claiming to be much of a guesser, I think that when the time comes I can place my figures within 1,000 of my total vote this fall.

"I have examined the question at hand carefully, and have also noted the spirit of the Ohio people this year. They are weary of carrying such enormous burdens of unjustly levied taxes and I think the great storm which swept over the country last year will be repeated in Ohio and other states this fall.

"Brough had a hundred thousand majority, and while I might be considered insane were I to place my majority at any such figures as that, I am positive that the victory in store for Ohio democrats this year will cause the most overwhelming defeat that the republican party has suffered for years."

"Where will the campaign open, governor?"

"The executive committee will fix that later on; it is very early yet and the plan of campaign has not been arranged."

The governor left this morning at 7 o'clock for Sandusky, from whence he visited Cedar Point this forenoon, making a brief speech to the Erie County Agricultural society. He was escorted to the Point by the Sandusky Tariff Reform club, 162 strong.

MADE A COMPLETE JOB.

A Brutal Husband Handled by a Mob.

Taken from Jail, Riddled With Bullets and His Body Buried in the Woods.

Henderson, Ky., July 30.—It has leaked out now that David King, the brutal husband who was taken from jail at Dixon, Webster county, Tuesday, did not escape, as was reported.

King was taken a few miles out from Dixon and after being hanged was riddled with bullets and then buried in a grave dug in the woods. His companion was whipped until he fainted from the loss of blood. He was then resuscitated and turned loose.

The mob made it a condition of his release that he should spread the story of King's escape, which he did.

Heavy Rain.

Lancaster, Pa., July 30.—Over three inches of rain fell in this section last night completely ruining the ripened tobacco and causing great loss.

DEMOCRATIC TO THE BONE

Kansas Wants no Peoples' Party Fusion.

Her Editors Speak With No Uncertain Sound.

The Ills to Which the Bleeding State is Heir to, and the Medicine to Cure Them.

Topeka, Ks., July 30.—The meeting of the democratic editors of Kansas, held here, was a success in both numbers and enthusiasm. Many prominent democrats were present, and the attendance included representatives from all parts of the state.

Th question of fusion with the people's party was the chief subject of discussion. Several of the old-timers, viz.: ex-Gov. Glick, Judge John Martin and others, were here to counsel against any action that would produce an open rupture between the democracy and the alliance, but those in favor of straight democratic nominations and a fight against the people's party as well as against the republican party were largely in the majority, and an address to the democracy of the state and nation was adopted by a three-fourths vote of all those present.

The address is very long, but a portion of it referring to the alliance and people's party is as follows:

"The evils that afflict the country are not the result of fixed and definite limitations upon governmental authority and upon those who exercise power, but precisely the reverse. These evils are the spawn of that latitudinarian and licentious idea which holds that government should be unrestrained, and whatever those in authority believe or profess to believe to be for the welfare of the country should be done.

"How, then, can these evils be cured? By a resort to methods of a like character but of greater extent than those which produced these evils? How can monopoly be remedied by more monopoly? How can the evils of too much government be remedied by still more government?

"How can wrong inflicted by stretching and violating the constitution be righted by suspending or abolishing the constitution?

"How can industrial emancipation be effected by a system that would place all the commercial activities and industrial forces of the country under the control of those in authority?

"How can despotism be avoided by a system that would increase the public patronage and enhance the power of those in authority a thousandfold?

"How can the evils of class legislation, partiality in administration, corruption and universal demoralization in finance be avoided by a system that encourages every man in the country to seek alms and makes of the government a public almsgiver?

"How can that individuality, that personal self-respect by which alone freedom is maintained be preserved by a system which makes every man a mendicant, the government a vast paternal power dispensing favor to the masses?

"Under such a system, with such vast patronage at its command, with such unlimited power in its hands, a party once in power could never be dislodged except by revolution.

"We therefore, while we profoundly sympathize with the aspirations and aims of all who hope and sincerely strive for better conditions for the masses of mankind, cannot subscribe to doctrines that are identical in character and intensified in degree with those ideas and doctrines that have produced the conditions complained of.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the indictment presented against the existing wrong by the people's party is a complaint against wrongs perpetrated by the republican party and continually objected to and pointed out by the democratic party.

"And while these wrongs were accomplished by [illegible] hands, unlawfully, over the united and best efforts of the democratic party, it was largely by the aid of those who now clamor for a redress of these wrongs by a species of communism and state socialism that are foreign to American traditions and the constitutional principles upon which this government was founded.

"These demands of the people's party would, as a necessary sequence, if carried to their legitimate consequences, result in subverting and revolutionizing the government itself."

On the questions which are interesting the farmers at present, the address said: "We believe in abolishing the inquities of class legislation.

"We believe in a return to the financial system of the country practiced from the foundation of the government to the year 1873.

"We believe in the abolition of the bankruptcy system.

"We believe in a vigorous and wholesome control of the transportation system of the country.

"To those who favor governmental loaning of money in products of the soil we quote a maxim by one of the founders of the government: 'The government should not become a banker.'

"We oppose governmental purchase of the railroads, but we believe in legislative control in the interest of the people whose chartered servants they are.

"We emphatically oppose the proposition for the government to purchase the surplus products of the soil as being a plain violation of the constitution."

The administration of President Harrison, the appointment of W. W. Dudley to his present position, the action of the senate in upholding Senator Quay and the McKinley tariff bill are strongly denounced.

In conclusion the address makes a strong appeal to the democrats of the state to perfect organizations and stand fast to democratic doctrines.

A Gay Old Bird.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 30.—Henry Bird of Newark, N. J., aged about 50 years, and Miss Carrie Scudder, whose age cannot be more than half that, were the contracting parties in a romantic marriage last night.

As the sun was sinking, the couple, together with Justice Russell and a curious crowd, repaired to the center of the suspension bridge, where, amid the falling spray and the thunder of the cataract, the justice tied the nuptial knot. A banquet at the Casino followed, where every one who called was made welcome.

A Bloody Fight.

Glen Cove, L. I., July 30.—Two negroes, Wesley and Richard Underhill, of Glen Head, got into a fight last night. Razors were drawn and the men cut and slashed each other until one of them fell down and expired. The survivor has been arrested.

Sawmill Burned.

Franklin Falls, N. H., July 30.—Eastman & Chadwick's large portable steam sawmill at Spencer was burned last night.

CANADA ON THE TARIFF.

The Cartwright Amendment Voted Down.

He Wanted Reciprocity in Manufactured as Well as in the Natural Products.

Ottawa, Ont., July 30.—The debate on the tariff changes proposed in the budget speech ended when Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, favoring a reduction of duties on necessities, and declaring that the Washington negotiations next October should be on a basis of reciprocity in manufactured goods as well as natural products, was rejected—114 to 88.

TRADE WITH CUBA.

Information Received by the Bureau of American Republics.

Washington, July 30.—The bureau of American republics has received a statement of the exports from Havana, Cuba, for the first six months of 1891, as compared with those of the same period last year, as follows:

Total exports of sugar this year, 594 boxes, 686,671 bags, 1,999 hogsheads; last year, 1,136 boxes, 295,083 bags, 5,399 hogsheads. Refined sugars exported this year, 5,826 barrels, 7,102 half boxes; last year, 12,073 barrels, 9,659 half boxes. Molasses, exports this year, 13,731 hogsheads; last year, 22,130 hogsheads. Tobacco, exports this year, 9,245,900 pounds; last year, 11,257,500.

Cigars, exports this year, 77,175,000; last year, 111,232,000.

Cigarettes, exports this year, 18,600,244 packages; last year, 18,705,096 packages.

Rum, exports this year, 4,895 pipes; last year, 4,660 pipes.

The Johnstown Dam.

Johnstown, Pa., July 30.—The business men of this city held a meeting last night for the purpose of considering the advisability of bringing suit against the South Fork club for damages sustained by the great flood. It was voted unanimously to institute proceedings at once. At a meeting to be held on Friday funds will be subscribed to defray the legal expenses.

EGAN IS IN THE DEAL.

Grave Complaints Against Him from Chili.

Claims that He Gets His Instructions from Balmaceda and Follows Them Closely.

Washington, July 30.—From private information received here it can be authoritatively stated that President Balmaceda's agents in the United States are making great efforts to secure a naval equipment here for the men-of-war recently constructed in France.

The Chilian government had some difficulty in raising the money to pay for these vessels, and is now in a quandary owing to the difficulty in securing crews and armament. The English, French, Portuguese, Spanish and Italian governments have officially notified Balmaceda's agents in Paris that they will not permit any munitions of war to be shipped.

He may have as many ships built in those countries as he likes, but he must go elsewhere for his equipment. There is great difficulty, too, in securing crews and the vessels to-day have not enough men on board to navigate the Atlantic, much less to make the voyage around Cape Horn.

It was owing to this fact that the Presidente Pinto went aground and will probably be a total loss.

In view of the success of the agents of the congressional party in impressing European powers with their importance as belligerents, it is not likely that this government will permit Balmaceda's war ships to be fitted out and manned within its jurisdiction.

As a result, the governmental party will find itself with three elephants on its hands, for which it has disbursed large sums of money. Without these vessels the contemplated attack on the territory held by the congressional party in northern Chili cannot be made, and Balmaceda is depending entirely upon his land force, which is now being reorganized, to hold the insurgents in check.

Unofficial advices have been received at the state department, containing allegations that Americans residing in Chili have denounced Minister Egan, whom they condemn as being too strong a partisan of Balmaceda.

Egan, it is said, receives instructions from Balmaceda at regular intervals, and obeys them as though he were in the Chilian service, instead of that of the government of the United States.

The charge is even made that Egan has received with favor a proposition from Balmaceda as the basis of a "deal," whereby if this government refuses to recognize the belligerent rights of the insurgents, certain exclusive concessions as of the nitrate trade will be made in favor to the United States. Under the Chilian constitution, Balmaceda could not carry out such an agreement.

If, therefore, the American minister has assented to such an agreement he has not only exceeded his authority, but he has placed himself in a decidedly ridiculous position. It is known here that the state department officials have become suspicious of Egan, and have inaugurated a new system of obtaining information regarding Chilian affairs quite independent of the United States legation at Santiago.

Late advices received by the state department are to the effect that Balmaceda's secret police have prepared a list of persons suspected of unfriendliness to his cause. This list is being circulated among bankers and notaries, who are warned that depositors whose names are on the list must not be permitted to withdraw their deposits or to execute any deeds or bills of sale. With three exceptions, all the newspapers in the dictator's domain have been suppressed.

The case of the Itata is set for September 12, and it is whispered here that in the event of the court declining to hold the vessel, this government's Chilian policy will be greatly relaxed.

THE POLITICAL ISSUES.

A Talk With State Senator Zimmerman.

The Campaign Will Be One of Great Importance to the Whole Nation.

Sandusky, July 30.—(Special)—In these days which, like the few moments before a storm, breaks are silent and portentous, there is little to be learned politically, but occasionally one may meet a guide post which points out the road to something of an interesting nature.

This morning a BEE had a few minutes' conversation with ex-Senator Zimmerman, of Fremont, who was returning from Lakeside.

"There is no question," said Senator Zimmerman, "but that the coming campaign will be one of the most interesting and fateful of any in the history of the state. The election next November will have a great influence in settling the line upon which the great national political battle of '92 will be fought.

"In my opinion if the republican cause is defeated, it will be the death blow to protection, and the enemy will seek some other issue for the big fight next year.

"Last fall the tidal wave which swept over the country was not regarded by republicans as the direct rebuke it really was, and this year to more thoroughly test the public spirit they have nominated Major McKinley the champion of that fallacious doctrine and the result will be, in Ohio at least, a direct negation or affirmation of the great issue."

"Upon what in your opinion, senator, will the result rest?"

"Upon the way the farmers vote and nothing can be said upon that subject until after the Springfield convention. If the people's party nominate a state ticket and the alliance supports it, it will be an uncertain element, and will in reality hold the balance of power.

"The alliance is fairly well organized in Sandusky county, but not so well as in Ottawa. The farmers are working over there and will cut a big figure one way or the other in the approaching contest.

"Good crops, which they have this season, will keep many of them in line, however, with their party. Farmers, as a general thing, strange as it may seem, attribute much of their prosperity or distress to the party in power.

"I remember in the campaign in New York state, when Tilden ran for governor against Davenport, that many people voted for the latter, asserting that fish would not bite under a democratic administration."

"Who will be nominated for senator in the Thirteenth district?"

"The fight will be a close one between Sonerant and Stewart, and nobody can predict the outcome. Both men have plenty of friends, and the race is practically an even thing. One thing is sure, and that is that both men are good democrats, and whoever is nominated will be elected, unless, as I said before, the farmers' movement is more pretension than it appears to be at this time."

A STORY FOR THE STAGE.

A Tale of Marital Woe and Sausage Making.

How Love and Weinerwurst Went Hand in Hand.

A Complicated Case Brought Out in What New York Claims Is the Middle Class

New York, July 30.—This is a story of a "society drama" in real life. The characters are all representative members of New York's "middle class." There are several acts and any number of scenes, but the end is not yet.

If Mrs. Katherine Koch had not inherited a fortune of $4,000 13 years ago; if Mr. Koch had not loved another and literally made mince meat of his spouse's patrimony, this tale of marital woe and damage would never have been told.

Mrs. Annie Niedecker, a plump and pretty widow, is said to be in love with Mr. Koch. What is more, she has the advantage of the proverbial nine points of law—possession of that gentleman.

Rudolph Paul is a soldier of fortune, whose present occupation consists in assisting Mrs. Koch to recover that lost $4,000 legacy. He is said to be in love with Mrs. Koch, and is guarding the person as well as the pecuniary interests of Mr. Koch's wife.

Louis Mosier, a furrier, who once made a sealskin coat for Adelina Patti, is presented as a sort of Don Juan. His wife, Annie, is also one of the characters, but she has not appeared yet. The other characters are a lawyer and two policemen.

The drama had its beginning in Philadelphia, where Mr. Koch met the shy Katherine and her $4,000 just thirteen years ago. After winning Katherine—and the $4,000 incidentally—Mr. Koch moved to New York, and in an evil moment started a sausage factory at 212 Avenue B.

The temptress in the person of Mrs. Niedecker appeared. She passed the shop one morning, saw the sausage butcher at work and, it is alleged, ensnared his heart.

Mrs. Koch, soon after this brought a suit for divorce on the statutory ground, in which she named Mrs. Niedecker as corespondent. In her complaint Mrs. Koch asked for alimony, counsel fees and her $4,000.

Koch countered by declaring in his answer that he was more sinned against than sinning, and he named Rudolph Paul as the destroyer of his home. Mrs. Koch is now Mr. Paul's housekeeper. Mr. Paul has a fierce moustache, and he receives company in his bare feet. He tells this story of how Mrs. Koch became his housekeeper, and how his sympathy and good nature were imposed upon.

He had a wife. Furrier Mosier was penniless and came to live with him. To shield his friend's true condition Paul introduced Mosier as his guest and half brother. Mosier showed his gratitude by eloping with Mrs. Paul. Then Paul went to live with Mrs. Koch. "They're living somewhere down Avenue C now," said Paul to-day, speaking of his wife and Mozier.

"I did not go after them. I did not care, and since she is that kind of a woman I am well rid of her. But I don't like this man Mosier's cheek. Recently he had the audacity to write me a letter accusing me of loving Mrs. Koch and telling me I ought to be ashamed of myself."

What has become of Mrs. Mosier no one knows and no one seems to care. The plot continued to thicken and the characters in the drama were in a hopeless snarl when a few days ago Mrs. Koch was arrested on a trumped-up charge, she says, of stealing some jewelry and a dress belonging to her successor in Mr. Koch's affections, Mrs. Niedecker.

She was locked up at the East Eighty-eighth street station, but was discharged for lack of proof.

Mrs. Koch says that her arrest was the result of a conspiracy on the part of her husband and others, and she has announced her intention of carrying the war right into the camp of the sausage maker.

KILLED BY A BULL.

Frightful Death of a New York Farm Hand.

He Fought Hard for His Life, But the Odds Were Too Much Against Him.

Cortland, N. Y., July 30.—After a desperate fight George Frieze, employed on the farm of his brother-in-law, Edward Petrie, about two miles from this village, was trampled and gored to death by an infuriated bull.

He went to a pasture lot a short distance from the farm house to see to some cattle. In the herd is a bull that on more than one occasion has displayed a vicious temper, and on two previous occasions had attacked Frieze, who found safety in flight.

Frieze had just seated himself on his milking stool Sunday morning when he was startled by the bellowing of the bull. The beast was making straight for him. There was no opportunity to run, so he picked up a hay fork that was beside him and which he always took with him when he entered a field where the bull was.

Facing the bull he prepared to meet him. The beast with head down charged on Frieze, who sprang to one side and planted the fork firmly in his ribs as he rushed past.

Crazed with rage and pain, the bull swung around and charged down on the farmhand. Once more the sharp prongs of the fork penetrated his side, but before Frieze could recover himself the infuriated beast was in front of him.

Frieze placed his fork in as good a position as he could, but the mad rush of the bull knocked him from his feet and hurled his fork from his hands.

With a bellow that could be heard for miles the bull charged again just as Frieze was regaining his feet, and seizing him on his horns, tossed him in the air. When the man struck the ground he called lustily for help.

As the bull renewed the fray and again tossed him in the air, catching him on his horns again, and tossing him backwards, the cries of the man and the bellowing of the bull were heard by Henry Brickman, who was at work in a field near by. He hurried to the assistance of Frieze, and arrived in time to see Frieze lying unconscious on the ground. Standing over him was the bull, frantically pawing the dying man.

When the beast saw Brickman approaching he took Frieze on his horns and tossed him over a rail fence fully ten feet distant.

Brickman summoned aid and had Frieze removed to the farmhouse. He never regained consciousness. An examination of his body showed it to be a mass of wounds and bruises. Three of his ribs had been broken and pressed in so as to puncture the lungs; his side was badly gored and his intestines were literally laid bare. Frieze was well-known in the county, but was always considered weak in mind. He was a single man, 42 years old.

The Funerals at St. Mande.

Paris, July 30.—Fully 25,000 people attended the funerals of the victims of the railway disaster at St. Mande, which took place to-day. Troops and police kept the route open for the procession. There were 24 hearses in the line which led from the town hall to the cemetery. Thousands of the spectators were in mourning attire and all the houses were draped. The archbishop of Paris sent a letter of sympathy. The prefect of the Seine had charge of the arrangements.

COAL AGENTS.

They Hold an Important Meeting in New York.

New York, July 30.—The agents representing companies controlling the interior and western anthracite coal markets held their monthly meeting at the Fifth Avenue hotel to-day. Second Vice President Holden, of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal company, presided. There was a full attendance. The principal companies represented were: The D., L. & W., D. & H., Pennsylvania, New York, Ontario & Western, Lehigh Valley and Reading.

The condition of the coal market was thoroughly discussed and the conclusion unanimously reached that no increase in price was warranted and it was agreed to leave rates undisturbed. The agents then adjourned to August 27. The same results were reached at a meeting of the eastern agents held this afternoon at the Pennsylvania Coal company's office, No. 1 Broadway.

Maryland Democrats.

Baltimore, July 30.—It is very generally stated here to-day that the democratic state convention will pledge the party in the legislature for Gorman's re-election. Frank Brown is considered sure of the nomination for governor and John P. Poe for attorney general. The three district democratic conventions held to-day adopted resolutions indorsing Senator Gorman.

WELKER IN THE SWIM.

A Lively Rival to North Baltimore.

A Hustling Little Town that Promises to Make its Mark in the March of Progress.

Welker, O., July 30.—(Special)—Some months since several Chicago capitalists purchased a large tract of land along the B. & O. and T., C. & C. railroad with a view of staking it out into lots, selling it, and otherwise improving the town.

Their efforts have thus far met with unlimited success, and the chance for Welker's future prosperity are now more flattering than at any time since the development of gas and oil in this vicinity.

With two first class railroads, plenty of gas, and men with push, it will be readily seen that the prospects for growth are good. While there are very few residents here at the present time, there is enough land around the town to induce manufacturers to locate. The price of real estate has not been advanced in view of a prospective boom, but to the contrary placed at a price within the reach of all.

Three hundred and fifty lots have been staked out at the junction of the two railroads, making the property most desirable for building purposes.

The center of Welker is only one and one-half miles east of the main street of North Baltimore, with a population of 2,500; about 10 miles north of Findlay, and 35 miles south of Toledo.

Welker has every prospect of becoming within a short time a large manufacturing center.

Its natural advantages and excellent facilities give it the lead over any other point in the oil and gas fields for business, manufacturing or residence purposes.

The citizens propose furnishing natural gas at reasonable rates, either for fuel or light.

The Manhattan Oil Co. has just built an extensive refinery and is enlarging it to a capacity of 3,500 barrels of refined oil per day.

The Welker Flint Bottle and Novelty Co. has located at this point, and are now erecting a first-class factory, 150x285 feet, to employ at least 100 hands.

Numerous other factories are contemplated, one of which will undoubtedly be secured this year.

Mr. A. C. Calkins, of Chicago, the leading spirit in this enterprise, was seen by the BEE correspondent, and in reply to a question said: "We have come down here and intend making a town out of Welker. The beautiful location and natural facilities led me to believe at the start that the town had a future, and I am now more convinced of that fact than ever before.

"There are many prominent manufacturers talking of locating here, and it is quite possible that some will be secured this year. They realize the fact that Welker is equal to any town in the gas belt as a shipping point, and as the price of property is so remarkably low, it is an incentive for them to come."

Naval Cadets.

Washington, July 30.—The following cadets have been appointed to the naval academy: N. Deweese, Third Texas district, with G. G. Tague, alternate; H. H. White, Sixth Iowa, E. G. Mills, alternate; H. M. Nigelow, Third Maine; W. H. Stanley, First California; H. W. Houk, Seventh Kansas; T. M. Dick, Fourth North Carolina, A. M. Simms, alternate; A. E. Eckhardt, Fifth Wisconsin; T. A. Kearney, Thirteenth Missouri; R. Parke, Fourth West Virginia; G. Schultz, Ninth India; E. A. Turner, Ninth Tennessee; R. King, Ninth Michigan; J. R. Monoghan, state of Washington; J. A. Schwablach, Second Wisconsin.

Leaped Under a Train.

Vincennes, Ind., July 30.—Wm. Kermkamps, a traveling agent for a New York firm, with his former home in Hoboken, N. J., was found mangled on the railroad track near here this morning. It is supposed that the man threw himself in front of a train Tuesday night with suicidal intent. He was here without funds and in a dejected state of mind.

FOOLED THE CANADIANS.

Playing Yankee Tricks on Cousin John.

An Old Hulk Sent Out for the Cutters to Chase While the Boat With the Whisky Sailed Away.

Quebec, July 30.—It has been ascertained that the schooner Marguerite which was seized lately at Trinity bay for smuggling, was only a decoy to allow another vessel with a valuable cargo to get away.

The quanty of liquor seized on her is small, and the barrels show signs of having come from Illinois, via Boston, Mass., to St. Pierre.

The Marguerite is an old tub and leaking badly. She could not have sailed from so remote a point, and must have picked up her whisky in some lonely creek down the St. Lawrence.

The smuggling business is increasing in the lower St. Lawrence and threatens to assume enormous proportions. It is estimated that over $1,000,000 is at present employed in illicit whisky trading.

Bergen's Asthma Cure Did It.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Dec. 20, 1889.
Dr. J. W. Bergen, Petersburg, Ind.:
Dear Sir—It is with pleasure that I testify to the virtue of your Asthma Cure. I had been a sufferer for years, and had almost come to the conclusion that there was no cure for asthma; but your remedy was recommended and I commenced taking it last June, and have not had an attack since, and I feel that the cure is permanent and complete. I hope that all asthmatics will give it a trial, as I firmly believe it is a specific. Truly yours,

AN IMMENSE ENTERPRISE

Line of Steamers Established Between Toledo and Liverpool.

Company Organized With a Capital of $2,500,000.

Col. S. C. Reynolds of This City President of the Company—Branch Line to be Established Between New Orleans and Liverpool.

The largest and by far the most important enterprise that has been developed in this section of the state was that perfected yesterday, when a company with a capital stock of $2,500,000 was organized to establish a line of steamers between Toledo and Liverpool.

Col. S. C. Reynolds, the enterprising grain commission merchant, is president of the company.

Before Mr. Reynolds went to Europe it was rumored that his chief mission across the Atlantic was the establishment of such a line. The enterprise, however, seemed of such magnitude that it was looked upon simply as a rumor and nothing more.

During his stay in Europe Mr. Reynolds not only perfected the arrangements for the establishment of such a line between Toledo and Liverpool, but also a line between New Orleans and Liverpool. The first will operate in the grain business, and the second will run between New Orleans and Liverpool in the cotton trade.

Mr. Reynolds was seen this morning by a Bee.

"It is rumored, Mr. Reynolds," said the reporter, "that your mission to Europe was the establishment of a line of steamers between Toledo and Liverpool. Is there any truth in it?"

"Yes, sir, it is true. The matter has been settled."

"Can you give me any particulars, Mr. Reynolds?"

"Well, nothing more at present than that a company with a capital of $2,500,000 has been organized for the purpose of operating two lines of steamers."

"Two lines of steamers? Between what points will the second line run?"

"One will run between Toledo and Liverpool in the grain business, and the second between New Orleans and Liverpool in the cotton trade."

"Who is interested in the company besides you, Mr. Reynolds?"

"Well, there are quite a number. It will suffice to say for the present that I have been elected president of the company."

"How soon will these lines be in operation?"

"Well, we propose pushing it for all it is worth, but of course it will naturally take some time to complete all the details. I think it is going to prove a success and I have received great encouragement, both at home and abroad, and those interested have taken hold with a vim and vigor that I think will insure success."

As will be readily seen, this immense enterprise promises great things for Toledo. It will develop our marine traffic as nothing else possibly could, and will result in making Toledo the greatest grain port on the lakes, if not in the country.

As stated in the Bee a month ago, the new Toledo flouring mills on the East Side will, when in operation, turn out 5,000 barrels of flour a day. This flour will all be consigned to Liverpool, and arrangements to that effect have already been made between the milling company and English merchants. It is understood that this traffic will be one of the features of the new steamboat line, and this output itself will require a large number of vessels of large capacity.

Besides this it is proposed to ship grain direct to Europe from Toledo.

Relative to the second line, which will run between New Orleans and Liverpool, Col. Reynolds had very little to say except that there are opportunities there for developing a very superior and successful line of steamships.

SHORT GRAIN RECEIPTS.

The Matter Brought to the Attention of Members on 'Change.

For some time there has been trouble among shippers and receivers of grain over discrepancies which, it has been alleged, occurred at this point.

To-day the matter came up on 'Change, and complainants were instructed to report all matters to Secretary Smith for investigation. Cars have been running from 5 to 10 bushels short. It is believed that sneak thieves are to blame.

PLAYED WITH THE PEOPLE.

Strange Freak of Lightning in a Church.

Nearly Everybody Knocked Down But no Serious Results Reported.

Osborn, Ga., July 30.—While 200 people were assembled at Lower High Tower church, near here, on last Sunday, a stroke of lightning fell near the church, and, glancing from the ground where it struck, proceeded to play havoc with the congregation.

Two or three currents seemed to enter the church and in an instant they threw everything into confusion. Benches were upset and the floor covered with people affected by the stroke.

Some were knocked senseless, while others had their clothes and shoes torn from their bodies. Many were burned and streaks and marks were left on their bodies where the current touched them.

Nearly every one in the congregation bears marks of lightning. Ex-State Senator J. W. Foster was knocked senseless and on recovering found marks on his legs and body.

Strange to say no one was killed, though many were rendered temporarily unconscious. A horse which was standing outside the church from where the lightning first struck was killed outright.

Wm. Hacker Dead.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 30.—Wm. Hacker, the veteran Free Mason, died at his home in this city yesterday, aged 81 years. He leaves a wife and six children.

Mr. Hacker was made a Mason by St. John's lodge, No. 13, at Dayton, O., in 1832, and passed through all the grades of Masonry, including the 33d degree.

He became a member of the grand lodge of Indiana in 1835 and has been a working member ever since.

Saratoga Races.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 30.—Weather continues cloudy. Track heavy.

First race, seven furlongs—Bolero, 1; Princess Bowling, 2; Madstone, 3. Time, 1:39.

Second race, American hotel stakes for 3-year olds, one mile—La Tosca, 1; Santa Anna, 2; Vallera, 3. Time, 1:43½.

Just before the third race rain began to fall.

Third race, sweepstakes, mile and 3-16—Homer walked over, all the rest scratched.

Had Counterfeit Money.

Erie, Pa., July 30.—The United States district court closed yesterday and Judge Reid opened the circuit court. Chauncey Marble, the wealthy lumberman, whose rescue was attempted by Columbus, Warren county, friends, came into court and pleaded guilty to the indictment for having counterfeit money in his possession.

Legal Holidays

Liverpool, July 30.—Saturday and Monday next will be observed as holidays in the grain market here. Monday will also be observed as a holiday in the provisions market.

NEW GENERAL MANAGER

For the Robison Electric Lines—Genial Jim Will Step Down and Out.

The Robison electric street car system is to have a new general manager.

Mr. David Robison, jr., who is now in the east, has made arrangements whereby the new manager, an experienced eastern man, will replace the present general manager, James Robison.

The new manager will assume his duties in about a week, and he is said to be a man of great executive ability and an expert electrician.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Col. Nauts' Residence Demolished—Miraculous Escape of Inmates.

Yesterday evening the residence of Col. Nauts on South Parker street, East Toledo, was struck by lightning and partly demolished. The lightning first struck and destroyed the chimney, passed through the roof into the kitchen, demolishing the cooking stove, and after cavorting around the room passed out through the sidewalk, making quite a large hole in its passage outward.

Mr. Nauts' two daughters who were standing by the demolished stove at the time, escaped unhurt and their escape under the circumstances is considered almost miraculous.

KNIGHTS OF THE PLOW.

The Farmers' Side of the Present Battle.

Joshua Crawford Talks to the People at Lakeside.

A Man Cannot Get Rich Pitching Hay and the Hardy Handed Son of Toil Wants Relief.

Lakeside, O., July 30.—(Special)—At 11 o'clock to-day the Farmers' alliance and its purposes was discussed by Joshua Crawford, secretary of the state organization. Ex-President Hayes was introduced by Dr. Vincent as the chairman of the meeting, and spoke substantially as follows:

"At a recent speech in the state of Massachusetts Grover Cleveland said that ex-presidents were mainly of use for occasions of this kind, and the party of ex-presidents agrees with Mr. Cleveland. [Laughter.]

"About all we can do is to perform these little duties and be good citizens." He then introduced Mr. Crawford, who said:

"I am certainly, as the governor said yesterday, sandwiched. I am between Napoleon and Wellington, although we cannot tell as yet which is Napoleon and which is Wellington. We will know that in November.

"The Farmers' alliance, about which I shall speak to-day, is a new organization which asks for the patronage of the people.

"It holds out principles which we consider are necessary for the perpetuity of the republic and the maintenance of good government.

"The farmer has always been an important factor in our politics. He has not been able to buy bonds and loan money to the government, but when it was necessary he did not fail to pour out his money and his blood in defence of the nation.

"Until a few years ago the farmers had held half the wealth of the country and did his share in carrying forward the great interests of the nation. Of late, the farmer has been investigating matters and he has some new ideas.

"The alliance is called an organization of complainers. We are said to complain but to offer no remedy.

"The farmer has a right to complain. He has been misused. The alliance is the outgrowth of uneasiness and unrest on the part of the farmer. The reasons for this restlessness are as follows:

"The unequal distribution of wealth; secondly, the contraction of the currency; thirdly, governmental extravagance. It is to right these wrongs that the alliance is in the field to-day.

"The bulk of the wealth of the country is in the hands of 39,000 people. Monstrous fortunes have been built up in the last 25 years.

"A few years ago a millionaire was a curiosity and was regarded as a prince, now they are common to nearly every community. Look at the Vanderbilt family, whose wealth aggregates in more than two hundred millions. Did you ever hear of a farmer millionaire? No man can amass a great fortune holding the plow and pitching hay. These great competencies are amassed by speculation.

"Then, again, wealth is becoming arrogant, and the holders are ready for crowns. The country is not yet in shape for royalty. We do not believe in the aristocracy of wealth, but in the aristocracy of labor, brain and industry.

"Wealth is the cause of this spirit of uneasiness and the alliance is to correct these wrongs if it gets the chance.

"The contraction of the currency is another cause of complaint. There are too many national banks. During the past five years the average decrease in the circulation per year has amounted to $18,000,000.

"At this time the amount of money in circulation is larger than it ever was before, but when we consider the large amount held in reserve by the banks the per capita becomes very small."

Mr. Crawford then spoke in a scathing manner of the extravagance on the part of government officials and said it was time the people took a hand in conducting the affairs of the government.

The noon boats brought a number of republican politicians of note. Among them were E. W. Poe, James Boyle, of Columbus; Smith, of Urbana; A. L. Harris, candidate for lieutenant governor, and many others.

Major McKinley was introduced at precisely 2:15 by ex-President Hayes, and was given a flattering reception.

The Reilly Case Nolled.

Attorney Wright was in the police court this morning, with his client, James Reilly, and asked the court that the case be taken off the docket. He stated that the defendant was not the guilty one as had been charged in the warrant, and went on to tell all the troubles Mr. Reilly was having since his arrest, of the death of Mrs. Reilly, the principal one in the case, and of the seizure of most of the household goods by her creditors.

After a lengthy discussion between Mr. Wright, the judge and Prosecuting Attorney Wheeler, the case was nolled on the recommendation of Chief O'Dwyer and Prosecutor Wheeler, and the nuisance ordered abated.

The other two cases will be tried next week, and as a jury has been asked for they will be watched with interest, as under existing circumstances no legal jury can be drawn for police court work.

Was Looking for a "Sit."

Yesterday the young man Leiter, who was supposed to have eloped with the Cameron girl from Delta, called at the Free Employment office in search of work for the girl.

In answer to an inquiry he said the girl was at present stopping on Huron street, and that she would like a position at general housework. He said that he was anxious to secure her work before he returned to Delta.

Superintendent Murphy gave him the addresses of several parties who desire such service, but whether the girl went to any of the addresses given Mr. Murphy does not know.

Leiter did not say that the girl was his wife, but simply a lady friend in whom he was somewhat interested.

Will Get Married.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following: Elmer E. Gunn and Mary A. Fula; Wm. G. Brown and Minnie Miller; Frederick R. Doerr and Maud La Bounty; Alexander Younker and Eliza Berger; Henry Eberle and Nettie Young.

Collision at the Crib.

A crowd of vessels at the crib about 7 o'clock last evening caused several collisions, one of which is very serious. Too mans craft tried to pass in the channel, and as a result nearly all suffered. The steambarge Empire, towing her consort Montpelier, light, left last evening and on the way out passed the schooner Teutonia, in tow of the tug Butler, in the straight channel.

At the crib, coming in, was the steambarge Brittain, towing the barges Reindeer and Davis, lumber laden, the tug Carkin with a dredge, and the tug Rooney with a scow.

In trying to pass at the elbow the Empire cut the corner and ran hard aground. The Montpelier forging ahead struck the steambarge almost square in the stern, breaking a big hole and doing other serious damage, besides damage to her own stern and rigging. It is impossible to learn just how bad these two vessels are damaged.

The Brittain in trying to get out of the way with her tow was obliged to sheer several times, but as the Montpelier swung back she struck the barge Reindeer. By this time the Butler had come up with the Teutonia and in swinging around the Reindeer struck the Teutonia and ran aground, but the damage of the latter vessel was the lightest of all.

In the meantime the other craft that had gotten into the crowd had a lively time to save themselves.

The Butler continued on out with the Teutonia and returning, released the Empire and towed her consort out to the lake. They were able to proceed, but the steamer was evidently leaking.

The Reindeer was released this morning and brought up to the city.

This elbow at the crib is a bad place for a jam, and nearly every day an accident of some kind happens here. A red stake at the turn has been gone for some time, and it is thought that this caused the Empire to miss the channel.

This morning the tug Andrews, with a schooner coming in, attempted to pick up the Reindeer, but broke her tow line and left the other schooner on the bottom.

St. Mary's River.

The stage of water in St. Mary's river just below the rocks is now lower than it has been since 1870. Ever since the season opened the stage of water has been on the decline. The highest point reached during the last 21 years, or since the government began keeping an official record, was in 1876, when during July and August there were over three feet more water than there is at present.

Captain Haskins Appointed to the Wetmore.

West Superior, July 30.—The success of the Wetmore's trip from Superior to Liverpool is tempered by the intelligence announcing the sudden death at Liverpool of her commander, Captain Saunders.

Captain McDougall is in Chicago and upon receipt of the news immediately cabled orders for Captain Hastings to take charge of the Wetmore. Captain Hastings was lately first officer of the steamship Parisian.

Fastest in the World.

Providence, R. I., July 30.—Herreshoff has turned off another wonder, and it is safe to say that there is nothing under steam that can touch W. R. Hearst's new yacht No. 168. Yesterday, with only 150 pounds of steam on—just half what she can carry—she made nine miles in 27 minutes and her builder, as well as the engineer's guests on board, say she is good for thirty or more miles an hour. The Cushing at her best has made 27 miles. No. 168 was tried in Bristol harbor and in the bay and showed that at every point she is nearly perfect as can be. She goes on the drydock here to-day and then will start for San Francisco.

DIED UNDER TREATMENT.

A Sad Affair at Tiffin To-Day.

A Boy Injured in Falling from a Tree Meets Death Under the Physician's Care.

Tiffin, July 30.—The peculiar accident in which a young boy named Bartlett had his leg broken by a companion falling from a tree and alighting upon him had a tragic termination as peculiar as the accident itself.

Last evening the attending surgeon, one of the oldest practitioners in the city, administered chloroform and set the broken leg.

This morning finding his patient suffering severe pain, he gave him a small and carefully graded hypodermic injection of morphine, and in a few minutes the child was dead. The cause is a mystery.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Committees on streets, sidewalks, gas, police and fire at the council chamber to-night.

Building permits to-day: Mrs. Jones, Franklin avenue, $2,000; Chas. Kubetz, Forrer street, $300.

James Lawlor, the sailor hurt at the Clover Leaf dock yesterday, was taken to the county infirmary this morning.

Morey & Buchanan, grain brokers, have closed up their quarters in the Produce Exchange and gone out of business.

The Oblingers Printing company filed proceedings in common pleas court to-day against the Northwestern Publishing company to recover $506.66.

There will be a meeting for boys at the Association hall, corner Summit and Orange streets, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, at which time there will be a debate on the question: "Resolved, that the locomotive is of more value to humanity commercially and otherwise than the steam or sailing vessel." There will be four boys to argue the case.

CHARGES AGAINST CHESTER.

He Admits He Received Money from the Patient's Friends.

Cleveland, July 30.—The examination of the charges of incompetency and dishonesty made against Dr. Chester, superintendent of the Cleveland insane asylum, was begun by the trustees at the Weddell house last evening.

Some damaging testimony was presented. The assistant physicians, Drs. Rary and Boinerke, testified that the superintendent never consulted with them in regard to the treatment of a patient.

The druggist testified that the superintendent never wrote a prescription. The most damaging evidence of the evening was given by the superintendent himself, who admitted that he received $900 from relatives of patients for which he could not account.

Several trustees expressed their surprise. Another meeting will be held, at which the doctor will be given another opportunity to explain.

The Boiler Explosion at Cummings.

The explosion at Cummings was not as serious as was at first reported, though it is bad enough. Instead of three being killed, only the fireman, Charles Moore, lost his life. His home was at West Mansfield. Four other employes, David Sigler, Frank Miller, John Inman, and William Enz, were seriously scalded but all will recover. It is thought that the supply pipe to the boiler became choked, which is now regarded as the cause of the accident. Had the explosion taken place a half hour later it would probably have resulted very seriously. Repairs will at once be made to the machinery.

To Escape His Creditors.

New York, July 30.—Thomas Bryde, aged 44, was arrested last night on the steamship City of New York on her arrival from Queenstown, charged with being a bankrupt and with having left Fermanagh, Ireland, with £300 of his creditors' money. He will be held for extradition papers.

Heavy Rain.

Wilmington, Del., July 30.—A heavy rain and wind storm struck this city early yesterday morning, causing $50,000 damage to buildings and sewers. In one hour three and a half inches fell, choking up all the sewers and flooding the dwellings. Throughout the state the storm was very disastrous to crops.

David Nye for Judge.

Akron, O., July 30.—The republican judicial convention of the second subdivision of the Fourth district met in Medina and nominated for common pleas judge David J. Nye, of Elyria.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Dennis O. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., July 30.

London wheat market very firm, held higher. Weather stormy. English country markets generally dearer. French country markets dearer. Liverpool wheat firm. Corn quiet.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,030,383 bu, compared with 472,277 bu on the same day last year.

The united kingdom's supply wheat and flour in the week ending July 18, equaled 1,017,880 bu less than the estimated consumption.

Chicago "Bulletin."—A dispatch from Buffalo says: "Erie canal freights are still lifeless. An official dispatch stated that the break at Montezuma had been repaired and boats could begin moving Wednesday. This will open the canal to Port Jackson and will allow shipments to New England via Rotterdam. Later advices from Schenectady say that the break will be repaired in ten days."

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 558,106 bu in excess of the corresponding Monday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports in wheat and flour equal 550,000 bu, and 120,000 bu of corn.

English markets for wheat and corn, as reported herein, are strong with tendency upward.

Dakota Wheat.

We have received from Hon. Harvey P. Platt a box containing heads of wheat from the Grandin farm in North Dakota. They measure five inches in length.

Our receipts of wheat and the cars on track indicate quite a decreased movement. Conversation with our receivers emphasizes this fact, that the movement is, in a measure, checked, and wheat is going to stock more than previously. We want to say to these "deluded souls" who watch every weak spot in the market to make it weaker by selling it down; that this is not a selling year. Every old dealer who proposes to base his operations on the experience of the past year or two will get left. There is no danger of serious decline in receipts, but it will not come in such a torrent as it has, and what comes will find a market. What the trade needs is a manifestations of courage commensurate with the entire change in the conditions that control our prices. We are in a position to dictate prices to the importing markets of the world. We fully believe that English prices will be 42 shillings per quarter and a dollar or more in Toledo. When that time comes look up for the day dawn of prosperous times for this country is at hand. English authorities, except Dornbusch, adopt 40 shillings as a fair and medium price, but if even that is maintained it will be in spite of our own dealers, who cannot believe in a fair price on a large crop.

The trading in stocks this morning was fairly active, up to noon 105,830 shares changed hands. The market was feverish and weak at opening and under a slight pressure to sell some of the leaders' values were kept almost continuously on the decline. The principal trading was in Chicago gas, Union Pacific, St Paul, Atchison and Rock Island. The two last named were about the only stocks that showed any strength. For a time they withstood the decline in the general market but finally weakened slightly. At this writing the market is extremely dull.

Quay and Dudley have resigned. Carry the news to Wanamaker and Raum.

Entire villages have been swept off the face of the earth in Ireland, and to-day sheep and cattle graze over the lands of abandoned homes. In 1841 Ireland's population was 8,175,124 inhabitants. After fifty more years of Great Britain's misrule the population of the Emerald Isle is reduced to 4,706,162 souls.

White-winged peace broods over the eastern hemisphere, if Lord Salisbury's after-dinner speech be the expression of his convictions and not the effect of good wine. It is a pleasant hearing, and will be more generally accounted true when, as the premier hoped would happen "in the course of a few weeks," England welcomes the fleet of the French republic.

Three paper dollars buy one gold dollar in Chili to-day. If the same paper were offered outside of that republic it would take many more of them. When the horrors of civil war are over that unfortunate country will find itself bankrupt, whichever party is victorious, and many years must pass before it will be again prosperous.

If this government may not recognize the people's side in the Chilian trouble, if the unwritten law of nations necessitates that this republic shall not protest while the president of another republic declares a dictatorship, then at least should the United States remain neutral toward both parties in the contest. It is not a nice story that is told of Minister Egan. He was sent to Chili as the representative of this government. Not to act as a factotum for Balmaceda in Chilian affairs, a sort of fetch-and-carry dog in jobs no Chilian will undertake. Minister Egan should explain or be called home.

Gov. Boies letter of acceptance showed his understanding of the need of tariff reform, in its characterization of the McKinley tariff as "legalized extortion," and in the democratic campaign in Iowa this paramount issue will have due place. As in Ohio the republicans of Iowa are afraid to meet the issue. They are wiping the dust off their "God and morality banner" and talking prohibition as the lesser of two evils. Prohibition is an issue in Iowa, and the issue is this: Shall a man drink out of a glass, or out of the mouth of a black teapot, the drink being the same in both?

Philadelphia will form an anti-monopoly league. Its purpose is announced to be "to attack every illegal combination that proposes to fix prices or to crowd out competition in trade." Even the great fat-frying state is waking up. The Philadelphians are of course not such children in the study of economics that they do not understand "competition in trade" is crowded out by nothing else so much as by the McKinleyed tariff. The "stronghold of republicanism" will soon be as difficult to locate as the mirage of the desert.

On the resignation of Chairman Quay and Treasurer Dudley of the republican national committee, our morning neighbor makes the following comment:

Messrs. Quay and Dudley may call it "resignation" or what they please, the rank and file of the party—those silent hosts who make victory possible, know they were forced out, and that the pressure came from within the administration as well as without. This truckling to the Rudolph Blankenburgs may have an effect opposite to the one intended. Perhaps the administration can stand it, and perhaps it cannot. We shall see what we shall see.

This is the honest expression in a republican paper of the opinion and the fears a goodly portion of the republican party. Go on with your funeral, gentlemen. The democratic party has no desire to stop the procession.

Discussion arises from the late complication in Tennessee as to the laws which should regulate the control of militia in a state. There are those who argue that when a state constitution does not allow the militia to be called out except after a legislature has met and declared war there is danger that mobs, insurrectionists or invaders can do a great deal of mischief before that body can assemble and act. On the other hand, it is argued that where a governor may on his own responsibility call out the militia at any time, the opportunity is afforded to precipitate a bloody struggle for insufficient reasons, and that such power should not be vested in any one man. The quickest way to get militia into action is to allow a governor to call them out. That this is the wisest way may well be questioned after a review of many state disturbances of the last decade. It would be all right were every governor level-headed enough to refuse to be frightened into doing an unnecessary thing, but this is a condition not safe to count upon. The militia has been too often called upon to do a sheriff's work.

The bureau of American republics has advices from Brazil showing a great and general increase in the imports into that country of British goods, during the first four months of 1891. One item is cotton goods imports, which for these four months amounted to $7,501,440, and for the same months of 1890 were only $3,702,215. Think of our neighbor to the south importing her cotton goods from across the Atlantic, while in this country, where the cotton is grown, the cotton mills work short time and pay low wages because "there is a glut of these goods in the market." The market we have is that "home market" for which republican high-taxers orate. The market which we ought to have, and in supplying which we should be prosperous, a fair trade nation takes away from us. A canvass of the eight cotton states shows that this year's product will be the largest on record, one factor placing it at 9,000,000 bales. And British cotton goods are bought in South American states. Let us hurrah some more for the "home market" policy.

A FAILURE IN MUNICIPALISM.

Municipal ownership of street railways has come to grief Toronto, and some incidents in connection therewith are worthy of passing notice. It is not so long since the municipality of Toronto assumed control of its street railways, and the event was heralded as an indication of the practical spread of the doctrines of nationalism. From the start the service under the city officials was unsatisfactory, and the indications tended to show that the roads, under city management, could not be run without financial loss. This frightened the city fathers into a proposition to again sell the franchise, which, notwithstanding considerable opposition from citizens, who were of the opinion the experiment of municipal control had not been fairly and sufficiently tested, has been done. The final vote in the Toronto board of aldermen by which the franchise was granted to the successful competitor was 22 to 14.

Two things were noticeable in connection with the exchange. First, notwithstanding the city's apparent failure, a number of corporations and syndicates made eager bids to gain possession of the franchise. Second, the successful company, the Kiely-Everett syndicate, has guaranteed payments to the city which begin at three times the amount at which the old company left off and continue at an increased percentage as patronage or population increases. The following are the rates of percentage payments on the annual gross receipts:

Up to $1,500,000	8 per cent
From $1,500,000 to $2,000,000	10 per cent
From $2,000,000 to $3,000,000	12 per cent
From $3,000,000 to $4,000,000	15 per cent
All over $4,000,000	20 per cent

An annual rental of $8.00 per mile of single track for every mile in use.

The company is required to sell cheap tickets for morning and evening traffic; to issue transfers; to supply new rails and equipment as needed. The city furnishes and takes charge of the roadbed, releasing the company from the liability of paving or repaving any part of the streets, and gives the company, subject to its compliance with all the franchise conditions, exclusive right to operate all surface street railways in the city for a term of thirty years.

The Toronto Mail considers a satisfactory end has been reached of a long and exciting controversy. It says:

It will be seen that an arrangement has been made upon which the city may be congratulated. It can now relinquish the responsibility of the street railway and the financial load connected with it with a sigh of relief, and it can also from the start begin to keep the new company up to the vows it takes upon itself.

The entire story of this Toronto business shows how very valuable an enterprising company considers a street railway franchise, and that any company parting with one will find plenty of competitors waiting to snatch it up. The city of Toronto, although it failed to successfully run its street railways, has made very advantageous terms in disposing of its franchise. The profit in the business, successfully managed, is shown in these terms, which a syndicate has accepted, not for the fun of the thing, but because there is money in it for the company.

The Tin Plate Sham.

The Welsh tin plate workers are to be let in under the clause which provides for such admission when the requisite skilled labor cannot otherwise be obtained. After the highly instructive articles on tin plate making which have appeared in hundreds of newspaper organs during the last six months it is amusing to learn that there is not enough practical skill in the country to man a few toy tinplate factories.—Philadelphia Record.

No, Not Half as Good.

One of the campaign cries in Ohio is that "McKinley was gerrymandered out of congress." Governor Campbell was once the victim of a republican gerrymander much worse than that of 1890, but he carried the district and returned to congress "in spite of all." McKinley is not such a runner as Campbell.—Detroit Free Press.

Republican Cardinal Virtue.

The republicans have stolen a member of the Ohio board of equalization! A party that steals the presidency would steal a road supervisor. "If we are not here for office what in the h— are we here for," is what one of its great leaders exclaimed in a political convention.—Eaton Democrat.

But It Was for a Better Snap.

A current item in the democratic press says no republican ever resigns. It is an interesting fact that every office Senator Quay ever held up to the present time, and they have been numerous, was resigned by him, with one exception, before the term expired.—Youngstown Telegram.

Will Soon Be Out of Sight.

The McKinley boom has tied itself from the band wagon at the front of the procession, and is now running along with the small boys at the rear. Pretty soon it will get tired looking at the Campbell, and give out before it reaches the grounds for a show down.—Lima Times.

Only One of the Hard Things.

The hardest thing for republican speakers and editors in Ohio to explain is, why wool is cheaper now than it was before the McKinley bill became a law, instead of higher, as Major McKinley had assured his wool-raising constituents that it would be.—Greenville Democrat.

'Twould Be a Great Curiosity.

The biggest card Maj. McKinley can play in Ohio is to get some bona fide workingman whose wages have been increased by his bill and exhibit him throughout the state. He would indeed be a curiosity and prove a drawing attraction.

First Rate Recommendation.

One of the best dailies in the United States is the Toledo BEE, and for any who is hunting a bright, newsy, democratic daily, we recommend that paper.—Jackson Herald.

Will Leave It to Woolson.

The people of the United States, says an exchange, drink $72,000,000 worth of coffee a year. There must be grounds for this statement.—Atlanta Journal.

Very True.

It is said that Senator Brice's ambition is to see Ohio a democratic state. Everything points to his having his ambition gratified this fall.—New Orleans New Delta.

Colombia Will Be Here.

Washington, July 30.—The Latin-American department of the world's fair has just received a cablegram from Bogota announcing that the congress of Colombia has appropriated $80,000 in gold for the expense of making a proper representation of the resources of that country at the Chicago exposition. Commissioners have also been appointed to take charge of the preparations for an exhibit, and have already begun their labors.

Two New Banks.

Washington, July 30.—The comptroller of the currency to-day authorized the American Exchange National bank of Lincoln, Neb., to begin business with a capital of $200,000; also the Commercial National bank of Huntington, W. Va., capital $100,000.

MISERY IN BESSARABIA.

A Failure of Crops and Scarcity of Food.

The Poor of the Land are Rioting for Bread.

The Release of Dillon and O'Brien from Jail—Interesting Cables from Foreign Lands.

London, July 30.—A St. Petersburg dispatch states that the greatest misery exists in Bessarabia owing to the failure of the harvest and the scarcity of food. In the village of Koushany the people broke out in a riot and plundered shops of provisions. The local police tried to restrain them, and were badly beaten, and one of their number killed.

Reinforcements arriving from the town of Bender the rioters were at length dispersed, and a large number were made prisoners. Two of the prisoners were knouted to death in the public street as a warning to their late companions, and six were selected for immediate deportation to Siberia.

The wives and children of the exiles were not permitted to speak to them before departing, and nothing was spared that would be likely to strike terror into the unhappy peasantry.

At Kishenau, the chief place of the province, it is said that not less than twelve persons have died of starvation and penury this month. Not Jews alone, but many Russians have hurried across the frontier into Roumania in order to escape the severe measures instituted since the outbreak.

Considerable stir exists in Irish circles as to the approaching release of Dillon and O'Brien. Hope is expressed by the McCarthyites that both men will take stand against Parnell, and there is talk of electing Mr. Dillon to be leader of the Irish parliamentary party, in place of Justin McCarthy.

English voters, of both parties look on the matter indifferently and seem to have lost all enthusiasm for the cause of Irish home rule.

On the other hand the firm stand taken by Sir William Harcourt, the liberal leader, against any commutation of sentence for the convicted dynamiter, Daly, has given great offence to multitudes in Ireland and already ribald songs are sung on the streets of Dublin and Cork about the prison-keeper and his so-called innocent victims.

Vienna advices speak of the spread of typhus fever and other diseases in Vulhynia, owing to the want of food and the terrible condition of the starving people, who are too weak in many cases to attend to the offices of cleanliness, so necessary at this time of year. In some places so many have died that the living are unable to bury them and the provincial government has had to detail prisoners from the jails to perform the duties of interment. The Russian authorities spare no effort to prevent the truth from being known across the frontier in Austria, but some of the terrible facts have leaked out nevertheless.

At an execution in Posen last week, of a man named Polenz, for the murder of his wife, the sympathy of the people was so strongly with the condemned that the executioner, after doing his work, was mobbed and beaten seriously by the indignant populace. The police made several arrests, but as the headsman did not care to remain in the vicinity to testify, even under police protection, the prisoners were discharged. The witnesses whose testimony convicted Polenz have also quit the neighborhood.

A Stockholm dispatch states that the authorities have given notice to the Roman Catholic clergy that the law against making converts will be strictly enforced. The law is said to have the general approval of the people, especially in the interior of Sweden, where religious prejudice is very strong.

The sentiment is gaining in Sweden in favor of decisive measures against Norway, as the agitation there is believed to be prompted by the hatred of the union and a preference for Denmark, which means Russia.

It is not thought likely that the Swedish crown or parliament will consent to any more concessions. King Oscar has given it to be understood informally that he proposes to keep an absolute independent position as between Russia and France on the one hand and the triple alliance on the other.

A letter from Capetown states that the great chief, Gungunhanna, whose territories lie partly in the British and partly in the Portuguese sphere of authority, has removed his kraal from the Portuguese section and taken up his abode permanently, as he declares, within British territory. He has also given notice to all his tributary chiefs to consider themselves servants of the queen. Gungunhanna threatens that, if the Portuguese follow him, they will have a hot reception from his twenty thousand or more Zulu warriors.

SERIOUS FALL.

Frank Mitchell Breaks Both Wrists and Dislocates His Hip.

Word was sent to the police station about 2 o'clock this morning that medical assistance was wanted at the New York house where Frank Mitchell, of Maumee, who had been in the city looking for work, had fallen out of one of the second story windows and was badly hurt.

Dr. Becker was summoned, and had the man taken to the hospital.

Mitchell is a middle-aged man and had just secured a place to work with the pavers.

One of his hips was dislocated, both wrists broken, and his head badly bruised by the fall.

At the hospital this morning he was resting easy, and will be all right in a short time.

ATTACKED WITH A BALL BAT.

A Miner's Brutal Assault on a Woman.

Clearfield, Pa., July 30.—For some time a miner named Wilkins has been boarding with Joe Wilson, another miner, in Decatur township. Wilkins soon became a great admirer of Mrs. Wilson. Her husband told Wilkins to leave the house. Yesterday morning he said he was sick and would not go to work, but would soon get ready to leave. Soon after he came down stairs he attacked Mrs. Wilson with a baseball bat, fracturing her skull. Thinking he had killed her he went up stairs and cut his throat. Physicians say there is no hope of saving Wilkins' life. It is expected also that Mrs. Wilson will die.

THE PEST HOUSE.

The City Will Not Be Allowed to Build One at St. Vincent's Hospital.

It seems that when the council committees on health and hospital and ways and means decided to build a hospital on the grounds of St. Vincent's hospital, they labored under a serious misapprehension. Dr. Fisher, the health officer, stated positively to the committees that he had spoken to the hospital authorities and they were willing to have the city build a ward for contagious diseases on their ground. When the action of the city was made known, the hospital people at once said that they had never given their permission for the city to build such a hospital on their ground. At a meeting of the hospital staff yesterday, it was decided that such a ward should not be erected in conjunction with the city, but it was considered advisable for the hospital to erect a ward of its own for contagious diseases, excepting cholera and small-pox.

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

Shoemakers Community Shop—Meetings Last Evening—Labor Notes in General.

One of the objects arrived at in connection with the proposed organization of a Shoemakers' Union is the establishment of what is known as a community shop.

"The community shop is operated very successfully in other cities," said Hugh O'Reilly to a BEE yesterday. "It is in brief an establishment wherein any journeyman shoemaker can obtain work at will. He pays 25 cents a week for a seat and takes his chances of getting work. He gets what he makes. It would be a good thing, too, for the dealers, as it would be very convenient for them to send cobbling or new work to the community shop."

General Manager Milliken gives notice in the Pottsville, Pa., papers to the 800 striking hands of the Pottsville Iron and Steel company's mill that unless they return to work within two weeks the mill will be closed to them forever and non-union men will fill their places under police protection.

The Machinists, at their regular meeting last evening, appointed special committees to arrange for the parade on Labor day.

D. A. 72, K. of L., is making arrangements for an excursion, to be given in the near future, with a view of securing funds to meet the expenses of the general assembly.

COVERED WITH MORTGAGES.

Land and Homes Heavily Incumbered.

Figures Returned by the Census Collectors on a Subject of Great Importance.

Washington, July 30.—The count of the farm and home transcripts made in accordance with the mortgage collection clause of the census act has been completed by the census office.

The figures are subject to slight modifications. There were returned by the enumerators 2,491,930 farms and homes occupied by owners which are encumbered by mortgages.

This number includes some farms and homes about which the enumerators made no report and which belong partly to the class of hired and partly to the class of owned free, as well as partly to the class of owned and incumbered.

Until this unknown quantity, due to the failure of the enumerators, is eliminated, it may be regarded as approximately true that two and a quarter million families of the United States occupy and own incumbered farms and homes, and that ten and a quarter million families occupy farms and homes that are either hired or owned free.

The proportions of hired and owned free homes and farms will be known when the population division completes the count of the returns pertaining to them. The preliminary results indicate that the average debt for a farm in Iowa is $1,883; home, $719; average for farm and home, $1,140.

If these averages hold good for the union the incumbrance on the farms and homes of the United States occupied by owners is at out $2,565,000,000. The success of this investigation, Superintendent Porter says, has been far beyond the anticipation of the most experienced statisticians and the result will be of immense interest and value to the nation.

The first volume relating to recorded indebtedness will probably go to press this year. Incomplete returns from several western states indicate that farms and homes are mortgaged for about one-third the value put upon them by the owners.

THAT TOBEY RESIGNATION.

The Chestnut of a Month Ago Revamped—The Doctor Talks on the Subject.

A month ago the BEE mentioned the fact that Dr. Tobey's private business would result in his resignation as manager of the city's natural gas department as soon as he could see his way to do so. The situation has not since changed, but the report is being circulated that he proposes resigning right away.

Speaking with a BEE this morning on the subject of his alleged resignation, Dr. Tobey said:

"I have no other intention than what I have had for a month past. As you have well known, it has been my desire for some time to surrender my position on account of the demands of my private business. I have said so to you and to members of the board."

Have you decided when you will tender your resignation?"

"No, I have not yet fixed upon any time. I have simply indicated to the members of the board and others that, in order to give necessary attention to my private business, it would soon become necessary for me to resign my present position. I have felt, however, a sense of obligation in the matter, which would compel me to remain until I could leave without any embarrassment to the board and without sacrificing matters which have been entrusted to my management and of which I have personal knowledge."

"Has the present difference of opinion between the members of the board anything to do with your resignation?"

"No. As you know, and as you have stated in the BEE, I had the matter under consideration before this difference arose, and had, before that time, spoken to members of the board concerning it."

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Men Who Have Been Mentioned for Various Places.

Columbus, O., July 30.—The following are the candidates mentioned up to date for the nominations to be made by the people's party convention at Springfield next week:

Member Board Public Works—Charles Davidson, Mercer county; J. H. Adams, Knox county; Edward G. Vail and David Rankin, Cuyahoga county.

Food and Dairy Commissioner—W. H. Schisler, Fairfield county; Isaac Freeman, Miami county.

To Sue for Divorce.

Fostoria, July 30.—Mrs. P. S. Williams, of this city, one of the wives of the Findlay lumber man whose dual life created such a sensation, will sue for a divorce.

A Rumor.

Tiffin, O., July 30.—Again it is rumored that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company purpose moving their extensive shops from Chicago Junction to this city.

Treasury Surplus.

Washington, July 30.—The treasury surplus to-day aggregates $55,742,984, of which amount $25,653,586 is in depository banks and $19,369,146 in subsidiary coin.

Iowa Prohibs.

Des Moines, July 30.—It is rumored in inner circles of the prohibition party that no state ticket will be placed in the field this year.

Acquitted.

Dayton, July 30.—Rev. Mr. Yale has been acquitted of a charge of criminal assault on a member of his congregation.

THE SMUGGLING CONTINUES.

Chinese and Opium Prove Very Profitable.

Government Officers are Unable to Check the Business to Any Extent.

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—It has been long apparent that an organized system of smuggling Chinamen across the border, as well as of smuggling opium into the country, is in operation.

At the trial of Inspectors Baird and Buchanan, Tuesday, for killing Deputy Sheriff Poor, the Chinamen testified that they paid $30 each to Terry, the customs officer, who was wounded during the fight.

It is thought arrangements have been made to pilot through some of the 400 Chinamen who came over on the Empress of India and landed at Vancouver on Wednesday last. There is a large camp of Chinamen at Abbotsford, a few miles north of Sumas, who are ostensibly cutting wood for a living. Visits to the camp have been frequent by outside Chinamen.

A receipt for a letter addressed to Hong Kong, China, registered at the postoffice in Vancouver, B. C., on July 14 last, was found to-day on the premises of one of the men arrested at Whatcomb.

This is good evidence of his having been across the line within ten days. Inspectors Baird and Buchanan were acquitted yesterday and Collector Bradshaw has demanded the resignation of Inspector Holden.

An agent of the treasury department is here investigating the case and sensational developments are looked for.

READY FOR DETROIT.

Toledo G. A. R. Enthusiastic Over the National Encampment.

Volunteer Post, G. A. R., met last night at their new quarters in Pythian Castle, and completed arrangements for attending the National Encampment at Detroit next week. It is expected that about 100 will attend and they will wear an entirely new uniform for the G. A. R. Their helmets will be white, and they carry canes, to each one of which is tied a bunch of buckeyes.

The post leaves for Detroit over the Michigan Central at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. On Saturday morning the post will turn out and meet Ransom Post, of St. Louis.

Six new recruits were mustered in at last night's meeting.

Forsyth Post.

Forsyth Post also concluded its arrangements for the national encampment at a meeting held last night, and mustered in eight new members.

This post will take about 400 men to Detroit, with Davidson's military band, of West Unity, Ohio. At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon the post will parade, and at 4 o'clock they leave on the Lake Shore road for Detroit. They will take with them their mammoth and famous canteen, presented to them by the Michigan G. A. R.

Besides other business transacted at last night's meeting a committee consisting of Comrades Miller, Peck and Jacobs was appointed to prepare resolutions of sympathy and respect for Comrade Sauter, deceased. The post also decided to turn out and meet Ransom post Saturday morning.

REGULATORS AT WORK.

A Mysterious Visit to a South Carolina House.

Raleigh, N. C., July 30.—Fifteen masked men, armed with pistols, visited the house of a woman named Mary Green Allen, who lived alone with her son near Grisson postoffice, in Granville county, a few nights ago, and carried her to the woods, where they whipped her nearly to death.

There was at the time in the house visiting a brother-in-law named Henry Merritt, and the masked men returned and beat him also, terribly lacerating his body.

No explanation of the conduct of the men has reached here.

INTERNAL REVENUE CASE.

United States Commissioner Hall Discharges the Itasca.

Yesterday afternoon United States Commissioner Hall had before him the case of Tilghman Ward, a saloonkeeper, on the charge of failing to pay his liquor tax. He waived examination and was bound over to the next term of the United States district court in the sum of $200.

The libel case of the schooner Itasca was also up for hearing. As stated in the BEE yesterday, the vessel was held at the instance of Shipscarpenters Conrad & Cardinal. The captain of the Itasca appeared before the commission and promptly settled the bill.

That Bridge Muddle.

Omaha, Neb., July 30.—Judge Brewer yesterday morning refused to grant the Union Pacific railway a supersedeas bond to carry its case to the supreme court, holding that such a bond would practically nullify the decree. This settles the case, and the Rock Island and the Milwaukee roads can come over the bridge into Omaha. The court will decide the other contested point whether joint rules and regulation must be formulated before trains can use the Union Pacific tracks or whether they can be operated under the Union Pacific rules until joint rules can be made, at the afternoon session of the court. It is quite probable that the Union Pacific will apply to the supreme bench for a writ of error to restrain the Rock Island from crossing the bridge. The Union Pacific has its engines guarding the entrance to its yards.

Railroad Promotion.

Baltimore, July 30.—A ting President Smith, of the B. & O. R. R., to-day appointed Robert B. Campbell, formerly of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads, general superintendent of the trans-Ohio division, to succeed Edward Dickinson, resigned; and John T. Johnson, superintendent of the newly created Akron division. Both appointments take effect August 1.

Killed by the Cars.

Upper Sandusky, July 30.—While Eli Horcu, a brakeman on the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railway, was crossing over his freight train last night at Lovell, he fell, the wheels passed over him, crushing his legs so fearfully that he died soon after.

He was from Columbus, single, and 25 years old.

Made Way With the Lucre.

Sag Harbor, L. I., July 30.—This morning while the employes of the Peconic bank were watching the passing of a procession a thief entered the bank and grabbed a package containing $3,500 with which he escaped.

Committed Suicide.

New Haven, Conn., July 30.—Louis Robinanitz, a Russian Jew, aged 16 years, committed suicide at his boarding house in this city this morning. Robinanitz was despondent over his failure to procure work.

Another Treaty.

Washington, July 30.—The reciprocity treaty between the United States and San Domingo has been signed and will be proclaimed by the president in the early part of next month.

THE LOSSES ADJUSTED

In the Recent Summit Street Fire—Somewhat of a Tangle.

Last evening the insurance adjusters and those interested in the recent Summit street fire met and amicably adjusted the losses without resorting to the customary system of appraisement.

The losses were adjusted as follows:

Loss on building	$2,667
L. S. Baumgardner & Co.	1,189
Central Chandelier Co.	9,000
Weed, Colburn & Co.	744

"Mr. Bronson refuses to allow us to leave his building," said Mr. Yaryan, of the Central Chandelier company this morning, "and that leaves our leasing of the Snead building in some doubt. Our company proposes getting legal opinion upon it, and if we can legally leave the building we will do so. As matters stand we can do practically nothing."

SWINDLED THE POOR MAN.

A Cheap Home Shark Gets in His Work.

Chicago's Hard Working People Swindled Out of Seven Thousand Dollars.

Chicago, July 30.—J. Bush came here about two months ago and opened an office as the accredited agent of the Co-operative Building bank of New York.

James W. Hyatt, ex-treasurer of the United States, is president of the concern, which boasts of having a capital of $100,000,000.

Bush flooded the foreign quarters of the city with alluring literature, promising homes to every seeker without a cent of capital—all business being done strictly on the installment plan. His victims came by the score and parted with all their savings in exchange for a worthless certificate of stock in the bank.

The swindle recently became known. Not a single loan was made to the depositors. It is estimated that Bush took nearly 7,000 with him when he left Chicago eight days ago, saying he was going to New York to get the loans.

Although Henry Carey, secretary of the bank, telegraphed from the New York office that Bush was not authorized to act as agent, a letter from that officer which was found in the swindler's desk contradicted that denial.

Moffitt and Langlois, who are the general agents of the bank here, admitted yesterday that Bush had been authorized to act as agent, beginning July 1, and had turned over $75 to them. Their explanation as to why he had been operating in May and June was that he had obtained a supply of stock certificates in some way.

The account of the bank in this city has been garnisheed, and the victims intend to prosecute the officers.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Ohio.

TAXATION.

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That a proposition shall be submitted to the electors of this State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1891, to amend section 2, of Article XII, of the constitution of the State of Ohio, so that it shall read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

SECTION 2. Laws may be passed which shall tax by a uniform rule all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise; and all real and personal property according to the true value thereof in money. In addition thereto, laws may be passed taxing rights, privileges, franchises, and such other subject matter as the legislature may direct; but burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and other property, may, by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and the value of all property so exempted shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

SECTION 2. At such election, those electors desiring to vote for such amendment may have placed upon their ballots the words "Taxation Amendment—Yes," and those opposed to such amendment may have placed upon their ballots the words "Taxation Amendment—No."

SECTION 3. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1892.

IN THE DARK.

O Thou who art my only Light,
Thee do I follow through the night;
Though home and hope are out of sight,
Firm trust in Thee my spirit hath;
Thou knowest my path!

Although I cannot see Thy face,
I feel the warmth of Thy embrace,
Enfold me in the dangerous place
Where sin lies waiting to betray;
Thou knowest my way.

O Thou who seest me through and through—
The thoughts I think, the deeds I do—
Thou knowest I would to Thee be true!
O draw me closer to Thy side.
My Lord, my Guide!

Thou knowest me, lovedst me in the past,
Even when the tempter held me fast;
Thy wanderer has come home at last,
Never again from Thee to stray—
From Thee, my Way!

I know not what may yet unfold
Beyond the morning's gates of gold—
This is my heaven—Thy hand to hold,
Thy steps to follow through the night,
My Life, my Light!

Dudley and Quay Hand in Their Resignations.

No More Blocks of Five are to be Purchased.

The Great Finance Collector and the Distributor Have Left Harrison to Paddle His Own Canoe.

Washington, July 30.—The national republican executive committee met at the Arlington hotel in this city at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Of the 13 members of the committee there were present but seven, namely: Chairman M. S. Quay of Pennsylvania, Vice Chairman J. S. Clarkson of Iowa, Secretary J. S. Fassett of New York, Treasurer W. W. Dudley of Indiana, Samuel Fessenden of Connecticut, Garrett A. Mobart of New Jersey and J. M. Haynes of Maine.

The first business of the committee was the consideration of the accounts growing out of th last campaign, submitted by Treasurer Dudley. This proceeding, however, was interrupted in order to allow Col. Scott, of Omaha, Neb., to make a glowing speech in favor of holding the next republican convention in that city.

Col. Scott had reasons in plenty to support his argument, based largely upon the precarious state of the party in the western states adjoining Nebraska, which might be improved by the infusion of party spirit engendered by a great national convention in the neighborhood.

He also offered substantial propositions looking to the facility of the convention's work and comfort of the delegates. When he had concluded the matter was referred to the general committee, and the executive committee resumed consideration of the treasurer's account.

A large mass of correspondence was also laid before the committee by the chairman and secretary for discussion. Many active politicians in different parts of the country had suggestions to make and conclusions to draw from the outcome of the last congressional election.

Some pointed out the dangers of the alliance movement in the states, and suggested ingenious plans to meet the threatened inroads on the republican party strength, and others referred to various grievances and causes of dissatisfaction among republicans which might be overcome by proper treatment.

All of these communications which appeared to be of value were carefully considered and particular attention was enlisted in behalf of an elaborate table analyzing in detail the last vote of the congressional election. Some discussion followed as to the time and place of meeting of the full republican national committee, and it was finally decided to intrust the selection of the place of meeting and the exact date to Chairman Quay and Secretary Fassett for determination, with the proviso that the meeting shall take place some day in November. If the time-honored custom of allowing six months' notice of the meeting of the nominating convention is to be observed, this action is an indication that the next national republican convention will be held not later than May next.

After electing W. J. Campbell of Illinois a member of the committee in place of Geo. R. Davis of the same state, the committee took a recess for two hours.

When the committee reassembled at 8 o'clock all approaches to their room were closed and no communication could be had with those inside. The first business of the evening was the presentation of Chairman Quay's resignation, which came before the committee in the shape of the following letter:

"Washington, July 29.—Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, secretary national republican committee:

"Dear Sir:—This is to apprise you I have to-day forwarded to Hon. William H. Andrews, chairman of the republican state committee of Pennsylvania, my resignation as the member of the republican national committee from this state.

"Yours truly,
"M. S. QUAY."

Upon motion of Mr. Clarkson, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That we accept against our judgment and with much doubt as to the wisdom and expediency of it for the party's interest the action of Senator Quay in his resignation as chairman of and member of the national committee.

In submitting to it, with so much reluctance and regret, we desire to express from our own knowledge of the facts of his prominent service to the party, our sense of the deep obligation under which he has placed the republican party and the cause of good government and patriotism in the United States.

"He undertook the leadership of a doubtful cause in a time when the republican party was disheartened and the democratic party confident in the power of supreme control in the government and the nation and when the odds of the contest were against our party, and by his matchless power, his unequalled skill in resources, his genius to command victory, won for his party an unprecedented victory in the face of expected defeat.

"We know, as no one else can know, that the contest that he waged was one of as much honor and fair methods as it was of invincible power and triumphant victory, and that it was won largely by the power of his superior generalship and unfailing strength as a political leader.

"In the great contest of 1888, in the months of severe effort, and during years of close personal association with him we have learned to know the nobility of the man and we desire in this conspicuous manner to place on public record for the present and for the future as an enduring answer to the partisan assaults of a defeated enemy,our testimony in appreciation of his public services and his personal worth."

Following this came the report of the committee on audit in the following terms:

"Your committee appointed to audit the accounts of W. W. Dudley, treasurer of the national committee, would report that on a thorough inspection of the books and accounts, we are enabled to state that all moneys received by the treasurer are accurately and fully accounted for and sustained in every particular by vouchers and proper receipts. We are enabled from this examination to approve of the treasurer's accounts and to express to the committee its sense of great obligation to the treasurer for the faithful and efficient service to it in this capacity.

"J. S. Clarkson, Garret A. Hobart, Samuel Fessenden, Committee."

The chairman then read the following letter:

"Washington, July 29, 1891.

"To the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee:

"My friends and associates—Inasmuch as you are about to reorganize the executive committee for immediate preparatory work, pending the approaching presidential election of 1892, and as my business engagements will demand all my time and attention during the coming year, I am compelled to sever the pleasant relations which have existed and still exist between us.

"I therefore tender my resignation of the office of the treasurer of your committee and of the republican national committee.

"W. W. DUDLEY."

The committee immediately adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That while we are left by Gen. Dudley's own wish, no other course than to consent to his retirement from the committee, we feel that his action deprives the committee and the party of the invaluable and loyal service of one who has proved himself one of the ablest and most faithful public men of his time.

"In every field of honorable contest and patriotic purpose, as a soldier winning in his boyhood the stars of a general in the union army, as a public official serving with equal fidelity his country in prominent places, in the political field with like ambition for the nation's good, he has proved himself worthy of the respect and admiration of his countrymen.

"In his whole public career in his unselfish service, and with his generous nature, he has given freely his time and labor, never thinking of private profit or personal emolument.

"His whole life is a generous proof of his manliness of purpose and his patriotism as a citizen. Speaking from what we know of his rare abilities and unusual devotion to party and country, we would express this grateful evidence of what we know the republican party owes to him for his services in so many of its contests and especially in the memorable struggle of 1888.

"We part from him officially with sincere regret, and in doing so we wish to put in the records of the committee this expression of that party's gratitude and personal friendship in which we know he is so worthy to be held."

The resignations of Chairman Quay and Treasurer Dudley were then formally accepted, subject to the approval of the full republican national committee at its next meeting.

Mr. Clarkson was elected chairman of the executive committee, and Mr. Hobart was elected vice chairman in the place of Mr. Clarkson, the chairman being authorized to select a treasurer to succeed Mr. Dudley.

Coming Regatta.

The Detroit Yacht club has appointed a committee of three to act with a similar committee from New Baltimore to ascertain the damage resulting from the grounding of the tug Oneida and her tow of yachts. It is the intention of the club to secure full compensation for all the damage done. The citizens of New Baltimore have asked the club to hold another regatta there and have raised $100 with which to defray expenses or purchase prizes if the club will go there. A gentleman at Sandusky, Ohio, has offered the club $250 to hold their next regatta in Sandusky bay. Neither of the offers have been accepted up to date, but both will be considered at the next meeting of the club.

WHO STOLE THE FUNDS.?

A Sensational Telegram from Indianapolis.

Somebody Has Been Tampering With State Money to an Alarming Extent.

Indianapolis, July 30.—John W. Coons formerly deputy auditor of Indiana, was sent to Washington by Gov. Hovey several weeks ago to learn why the state had not been paid $46,000 due on the old war loan claims.

He instituted an investigation, which has resulted in the discovery that there is really $300,000 due Indiana, and assurances have been given by the government officials in authority that the amount will be paid.

A detailed report of the investigation, will be made public in a day or two. The investigation has disclosed some very remarkable frauds. One voucher in favor of a well-known physician for $53.70 was raised by unknown persons to $5,370 and collected. That this money was paid is certain, but who the beneficiaries of this swindle are, if such they are, or whether the money was received by the state, is not known.

Gov. Hovey does not say that the exact amount due the state is $300,000. He intimates that it is more. When asked about the matter to-day he said:

"If the claims of the state for war tax, interest and national road affairs were paid, the amount in total would not be less than $1,000,000."

The discoveries of Mr. Coons have opened the eyes of the Washington officials, and they have instituted an investigation which will, it is believed, disclose extensive frauds.

REET CAR TROUBLES.

ng of the Men Called for To-Night,

h Will Decide Upon Some Action.

Be Another Strike or it May But a Volcano is Smoldering Just the Same.

Electric Wage Workers' union includes the conductors and motormen both street car companies, and the car Men's union will hold a special meeting at Carpenter's hall this evening to discuss several grievances that men hanging fire since the strike. men claim that they have not been treated right, and there is a strong feeling among them for another strike. It is for reason that the meeting is called for to-night, and so me immediate and decisive action will be taken. Many of the men in favor of a strike at once, while the leaders among the leaders are not anxious, but would rather bring the matters in by other means if possible. It has been previously mentioned in the BEE men are dissatisfied because the wages are only paying 15 cents per hour instead of $1.50 per day, as they under the agreement under which they went to work. The men say they are willing to work the full 12 hours per day, but want pay for the same, and claim the companies should keep them at work for the full time.

The companies are now working a portion of the men only from 9 to 10 hours per day, and consequently at 15 cents per hour they are unable to get full time, some of them have only been receiving $1.35.

It is said this the companies have been in a number of spotters on the cars, and through the work of these many men have been discharged on the most trivial excuses. There is considerable dissatisfaction with Superintendent Denman, of the Consolidated, although this is not put forth as one of their grievances.

Several of the men prominent in the present trouble stated to a BEE that if they had been working under a different system a strike would never have been thought about.

The last regular meeting of the street railway men's union, Messrs. Booth, Fellows, Lang and Otto were appointed a committee to wait on Mr. Lang in regard to the wishes of the men and find out from him what was intended to do.

The committee has seen Mr. Lang and will report to the union to-night. The result of the conference with Mr. Lang is not known, but the impression is that it will be satisfactory.

The committee did not wait on Mr. Denman for the reason that he sent word through one of his officials that he was willing to pay $1.80 per day, but now refused to come to time, and his men are not satisfied than ever.

The cause of the dissatisfaction is further in which both companies have been acting old men with new ones whenever possible.

It is impossible to predict what the result of the meeting to-night will be. The men are holding together, and are unanimous in their opinion that something should be done.

The only differences are regarding the means to the end, but they are determined to stand together on whatever is done.

tirement will be voluntary in each case due solely to the desire of the retiring officer to place himself in a position to secure himself of other honors.

secretary of war will resign to take the senate made vacant by the appointment of Senator Edmunds, of Ver-secretary of the interior will resign to accept a judgeship in the new circuit of appeals.

Attorney-general will resign for the purpose. The tenure of the office of judges is for life, at a salary of $6,000 per annum. The successors of the retiring officers will be problematical.

It is thought, however, that Land Commissioner Carter will be secretary of the interior, ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire, will be secretary of war, and General Taft, of the department of justice, from Ohio, will be attorney-general.

It is reported that Hon. Robert P. Porter will accept the position of Superintendent of the census this fall. The heavy work of the census is completed, and Mr. Porter will find a satisfactory position awaiting him in the government.

ton, Aug. 1.—The agents of Baron Barons, composed of such well-known characters as Quay, Dudley and Clarkson, met here to devise a plan and still continue their robbery of the people.

The first thing they did was to levy assessments upon the manufacturers, who are the principal beneficiaries of the McKinley bill, to the amount of $100,000 to be incurred at the end of the campaign, and to raise about $100,000 to aid McKinley in his Ohio campaign, and to raise about $100,000 to aid McKinley in his Ohio campaign, and to use against Boies in his campaign the sum of $100,000 is to be

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET

Dullness Generally Prevails Among the Dealers,

But This is to be Expected at Present.

Col. Smead Opposes Fourteen Story Buildings—The Need of Business Blocks—In Building and Loan Circles.

Warm weather continues, as does the dull in the real estate market. Everything is exceedingly quiet, and dealers are not making any effort to create business. It is a most fruitless task at present. One or two good sized deals were about the extent of the activity of the week. There are several in the grind, but they are not out yet.

A few lots found sale for building purposes.

Prices are firm, and inquiry very good, considering the time of year and hot weather.

Prospects for lively times this fall were never better.

We Need More Business Blocks.

"Toledo needs more buildings especially adapted for office purposes and nothing more," said Horace S. Walbridge to a BEE. "There isn't a modern complete office building in the city, and parties desiring comfortable quarters have to skirmish quite lively. A practical illustration is apparent in the number of business men and organizations that have taken up quarters in residences near the city. There is the Paragon Oil company, the Northwestern Gas company, the Clover Leaf Railroad company and numerous others. I don't advocate the erection of buildings before they are needed, but if Toledo ever stood in need of anything she needs some new business blocks—not particularly office buildings, but business blocks. If a party should come to Toledo and want to locate in the wholesale dry goods, grocery or any other business, we couldn't offer him a place to do business in at any price."

A Splendid Increase.

"There has been an immense increase in the value of property in the vicinity of Collingwood avenue and Missouri street," said W. H. Lufkin, of the Ohio Central, to a BEE. "Lots that sold last summer for $25 a foot have moved in the market at $35, and are not a drug on the market at that. In fact, there is scarcely a vacant lot for sale. Two years ago there was nothing but vacant lots on Missouri street, from Washington street to Lenk street; now there isn't a vacant lot on the street."

In Building and Loan Circles.

The Central Building and Loan association will open its books for business August 1, and no more stock will be sold or loans acted upon before that date. A number of applications for loans have been made, and the indications are the organization will prosper from the first.

The Home will declare a dividend to its stockholders August 5. This company is young, but is growing in popularity every day. Its managers are business men and hustlers.

The Corn City association, which was organized two weeks ago, is down to business like old timers, and has made several good sized loans. The directors meet tonight to consider numerous applications for loans.

The League meets next month in Cincinnati. Toledo will be well represented.

Residence Growth.

The growth of the residence portion of the city this summer has been most extraordinary. A trip in any direction will verify this statement. Hundreds of costly and handsome residences have been erected all over the city, to say nothing of innumerable common dwellings and cottages. The property between Monroe street and Ashland avenue has received special attention in this respect. Hundreds of acres have been laid out in lots, which on being placed on the market, have met with ready sale. The movement has not been on a speculation basis, but each lot bought for business purposes. The locality was found to be most desirable for homes, and business men were not long in realizing this fact, and were not slow to take advantage of the opportunity. The consequence is, the territory has had an almost phenomenal growth. New streets have been dedicated, and a number of them paved. Every modern convenience is afforded, and what was but a year or two ago farm land, promises to be the most popular residence portion of the city.

A Good Sale of Lots.

About the only deal of any consequence during the week was the sale of a block of lots in Lincoln Smith's addition.

The transfer was made from Clarence Brown to Lincoln Smith, and the consideration was $6,000.

The property sold were lots 3, 6, 9, 14, 30, 83, 84, 87 and 89.

Lot 3 is 50 feet wide and extends from Lake Shore avenue to Detroit avenue, a distance of 1,171.02 feet. Lot 14 is an inside piece, almost triangular in shape. Its lines are 108, 100, 48.8, 139 and 108.

Lot 30 is another triangle, fronting on Lake Shore avenue.

Lots 83, 84, 87 and 89 front on Finch street, are 40 feet wide and 120 feet long.

No Use for High Buildings.

"We don't want fourteen story buildings in Toledo," said Col. Isaac D. Smead. "Such a building would simply ruin the adjoining property."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, say you own a two or three story building on one corner. I own one of the same height on another, and another man on another corner. We each have two stories which are rented for offices. A man comes along with a million dollars. He puts up a building of fourteen stories, which completely obliterates our little three-story buildings. His building supplies all the demand, and our buildings stand vacant. Now, if this man worth a million had put up a building the size of ours we could all live and realize a reasonable income. No sir, I don't approve of 14-story buildings in Toledo or any city of double its size. We do need more three and four-story buildings. New York city and Chicago may furnish tenants for immense buildings of the kind, but they are bad property in Toledo."

A Very Good Movement.

"There has been a good healthy movement this week," said L. S. Baumgardener. "Inquiry has been excellent, and there is considerable demand for lots for immediate use."

"We have had a splendid sale of lots during the week, much better than could be expected at this time of the year. We sold five lots in Rosdale, and the owners have already contracted for fine residences to be erected on them, costing from $4,000 to $6,000 each.

"Ordinarily we would consider this a big movement, but it is nothing compared with what the market will be later on. I look for lively times in real estate this fall."

Building Points

A. Bench is building a cottage on Loraine street.

James Pertoney will build a $500 house on Ontario street.

S. B. Willsden's new block on Adams street is ready for occupants.

The Second Congregational church has contracted for a splendid edifice in East Toledo.

The Mutual Aid made no new loans this week. They are catching up on money sold ahead.

Wm. B. Taylor is building new frame cottage on Ontario street near Buckeye street to cost $800.

Mrs. Ayres has contracted for a beautiful residence on Robinwood avenue, which when completed will cost $10,000.

Wm. Boos has contracted for a handsome dwelling on Robinwood avenue. When completed it will cost $5,000.

A. C. Mott is preparing to build a brick store building on Washington street. When completed the structure will cost $3,800.

I. H. Detwiler & Co. are building three new houses in a new addition lately opened, called Navarre addition to East Toledo.

E. O. Fallis & Co. are receiving bids on the Y. M. C. A. and Walbridge office buildings. Contracts will be awarded in a week or two.

The directors of the Central met last evening and closed up a few minor matters preparatory to opening the books for business August 1.

PISCATORIAL PASTIMES.

Newsy Fishing Notes from Ottawa River and Other Points.

The delegation of Toledo fishermen—Gunckel, Lorenz, Moore, Machen, et al.—who visited Monroe this week, report excellent sport. It is a pity that a boat does not run between Toledo and the Piers this season. It would pay.

Harry Steiner has returned from a 10 days' fishing trip to Michigan. He had great success.

The black bass are beginning to take the hook. Bert Noble, with his old friend J. M. Watson, of Elkhart, Monday morning, at Lang's bend, caught nine gamey fellows that weighed from two to three pounds each.

Large pike are commencing to bite. Gus Lang, of Shaw, Kendall & Co., has been out at his country place the past week angling and recuperating his health. He hooked quite a number of three and four pound pike, and also got some fine black bass.

Mr. J. V. Sanfleet, the sash, door and blind manufacturer, is one of the most philosophical anglers of all the philosophers who visit the clasic Ottawa. When he catches nothing he is happy; when he hooks three small perch he is still happier, but when he takes a fine string of pike and black bass, as he did Tuesday with a party of ladies, then he is jubilent. Messrs. Sanfleet and Walcott have made some very fine catches at the bend this season.

There are now a great many large Virginia rail in the marshes. Hunters have already commenced to shoot them, but it is too early, as their flesh is not yet very good.

Mr. J. B. Eisenhart, the cigar manufacturer, one day last week with a friend, distinguished himself by taking 22 pike and black bass in Horse Shoe cut, just above Lang's bend.

Senator McLyman is negotiating for the purchase of a summer residence on Ten Mile creek.

Benj. Lyons, the venerable plasterer, continues to lead all others as the champion bullhead and sunfish catcher.

Owing, no doubt, to the steady, cool weather and the prevalence of east winds, angling heretofore this season has not been good, but at last fine strings are being taken. A large number of fine black bass have been hooked the past week at Point Place and Lang's Bend, and if one may form an opinion from the great number seen in the water there will be good sport henceforward. Pike are more abundant than they have been for years, and the sport this fall promises to rival the famous angling of two years ago, when all the local fishermen, such as Swinburn, Krebbs, Layden, Steiner, McDonald, McLyman, and others, distinguished themselves by taking from thirty to a hundred pounds in an afternoon. The steady protection against nets in the Ottawa the last six years has resulted in greatly increasing all varieties of fish in this splendid body of water. Any afternoon now when the wind is favorable, the angler who understands his business, can take a half bushel of perch, sun fish and rock bass in the vicinity of Harry Steiner's castle. The little children of the farmers and the fruit growers along the creek, now all the season, when they are wanted, supply the family table with as fine pan fish as were ever eaten.

The Jewish Problem.

It is in eastern Europe and in Russia, where the Jews are massed and where they are still thoroughly Talmudic, that the trouble arises, and the end of it does not seem near. If the quarrel were religious, the preaching of religious toleration might allay it; but we have seen that it is not religious, but economic, social, and national. What the peasant wants is not that Jews should be forcibly converted or that they should be prevented from worshiping in their own synagogues after their own fashion, but that he shall be freed from alien usury and domination. He would hardly desire anything so cruel as the expulsion of the Jews from the land which has long been their home, if it were possible that their habits and bearing should be changed. But it is not likely that the yoke of the Jew will become less galling, or that the suffrance of the people will increase. Nor are the dense swarms of Russian or Roumanian Jews likely soon to be "derabbinized and denationalized," or to give up their immemorial trades. What will be the result in eastern Europe generally depends on a balance of forces which we have no means of correctly estimating. The governments generally are on the side of the Jew. To repress rioting and maintain order is their duty; while, in the financial state to which they have reduced themselves by their rivalry in military expenditure, they can afford to provoke the ire of the money power. The balance of policy inclines the same way. Nihilism is supposed to be partly recruited from the Jews, and their influx into London has been followed, it seems, by a strange development of the low socialistic press; but the notion that the disciples of the Talmud had anything to do with the French revolution is too absurd for discussion; the party of the prosperous Jew is the party of wealth, and as a rule he is conservative. The Russian government alone, being intensely national and very uncommercial, takes decidedly the part of its own people. The thanks of all nations are due to Baron Hirsch, or any other philanthropist, who can find the solution of a problem which now for 2,000 years has formed not the least calamitous and piteous part of the annals of humanity.—Prof. Goldwin Smith in North American Review for August.

An Old Nurse for Children.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Summer Tours.

The Wabash railroad are offering round trip tourist tickets, at very low rates, to Excelsior Springs, Eureka Springs, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Butte, Helena, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Sitka, Alaska and many other points.

They are the only line east of Chicago that have a complete line of tourist tickets, obviating the annoyance to passengers of exchanging their tickets at some point en route. Palace reclining chair cars (seats free), elegant sleepers and famous Wabash dining cars on all trains.

Through Pullman buffet sleeping cars and palace reclining chair cars to Kansas City without change.

WHICH ONE WAS KEPT.

There were two little kittens, a black and a gray,
And grandmamma said with a frown—
"It will never do to keep them both,
The black one we'd better drown.

"Don't cry, my dear," to tiny Bess,
"One kitten's enough to keep;
Now run to nurse, for 'tis growing late
And time you were fast asleep."

The morrow dawned, and rosy and sweet
Came little Bess from her nap;
The nurse said, "Go into mamma's room
And look in grandma's lap."

"Come here," said grandmamma, with a smile,
From the rocking chair where she sat;
"God has sent you two little sisters,
Now, what do you think of that?"

Bess looked at the babies a moment,
With their wee heads, yellow and brown,
And then to grandmamma soberly said,
"Which one are you going to drown?"

THE NEWSBOYS' HOME.

Perhaps we can better understand the meaning of the term by taking a peep into one. This is what Milly herself did.

"Drive to the Newsboys' home," she said to James as she stepped into the carriage. James' only answer was a stare of bewilderment. "Don't know of any such place, miss."

"Is it possible?" she asked. "What shall I do? Wait, there is a newsboy, I'll ask him.'

"The Newsboys' home? Why, don't you know that there is one round on Old avenue?"

But James still shook his head. "I'm not sure," he said, "I know where that is, but I guess it's in a pretty tough part of the city."

The boy, seeing their perplexity, volunteered his services as a guide. The carriage drove several squares down Fifth avenue, past the court house and jail, and then turned into a narrow dirty street, lined on either side by rickety tumble down buildings. Under the very shadows of the jail stood a large, three-story brick building newly painted. They alighted and the boy led the way up two flights of narrow, steep stairs on the outside of the building. Following him into the doorway, Milly stood on a bare, but neatly-scrubbed floor. In the center of a small room stood a large soft-coal stove, and around it, on a number of hard benches without backs, lounged half a dozen newsboys hovering close to the fire. Just as Milly was wondering how she should introduce herself, a man stepped out of another room and said:

"Do you wish to see anybody? I am the superintendent if you do; Mr. Platt. This is a poor place, but it's much better than the old one. We moved in here two years ago. Before that I had only a sort of a cellar down on Penn avenue. We were crowded there for room, but we have grown so since coming here that we are just as badly crowded here."

"Indeed," said Milly, "you must have a great many boys."

For a reply he led her into an adjoining room. It was a large one with windows on both sides. Across it stretched two rows of iron-framed cots, each one having two beds, one above another. "There are just forty of these," said the superintendent, "and we have them filled every night. But there are 200 regular newsboys in the city, and we could lodge nearly all of them if we had the accommodations."

"Only two hundred," said Milly, in surprise. "I thought from the number that I have seen on the streets there must be a thousand."

"So there in all," he replied. "I suppose there are at least 800 selling papers on the streets of Pittsburg every day, and at the newsboys' dinners we have fed as many as 1,200." While he was speaking to her, a boy sidled up to him and laid down some money on one of the benches. "I'm going to work now," he said.

"Whose place do you take?" asked the man.

"I'm on for Jimmy to-day" was the boy's answer.

"What did he give you the money for?" inquired Milly, with some curiosity.

"That was for his lodging. We charge the boys 25 cents per day for their lodging, three meals, washing and mending and the privelege of the school."

"Oh," said Milly, "I didn't know you fed them here; I thought it was only a place for them to sleep at night."

"This is a home, Miss," said the man, with a pardonable pride in his tone. "There are plenty of cheap lodging places in the city where the boys can get some kind of a cot to sleep on for a nickel or a dime, but we try to make this a home to them, where they will be surrounded with all the refining influences they would have if their own parents were sober and religious."

He then opened another door and led her to another large room fitted up with desks and seats. "This," said he, "is our school room. We have school every day from 10 to 12 in the morning, by which time the boys are through with their morning papers and have nothing to do until editions are ready. Then we have night school five nights in the week."

"Oh, dear," said Milly, "that is exactly one of the things I wanted to talk with you about. I so much want to do something myself for the newsboys."

"Hum, yes," he said, "but have you ever taught?"

"No," she answered; "but couldn't I do it?"

"Why, you see," said he, "teaching is a regular profession, and the teacher we employ has to pass an examination the same as that required for the teachers in the public schools of the city, and we pay her a salary for her services."

Milly blushed at this revelation of her own incompetency for the work she had been planning to do. The superintendent noticed the look of disappointment upon her face, and said, "But if you will come round next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock we will give you an opportunity to teach. We have a Sunday school for the boys, and have to depend upon volunteer assistance."

"Then you may look for me," said Milly.
—Our Young People.

BE ALERT.

An active-minded boy or girl can find out a great deal about the world we live in by the habit of attention, by looking round; and he or she can get much inspiration from the example of good men and woman. But this knowledge can be added to indefinitely by reading, and people will read if they have a genuine desire to know things and are not, as we say, "too lazy to live." When I hear a boy say that he does not know what to read, I wonder if he has no curiosity. Is there nothing that he wants to know about? Most children ask questions. It often happens that the persons they ask cannot answer the questions. Now, it is the purpose of books to do just this thing which the particular person asked cannot do. And that is about all there is in reading. Of course it must be borne in mind that curiosity is of many kinds, curiosity about facts, about emotions, about what happened long ago, about what is taking place now, about the people who lived ages ago, and the people who live now, about others, and about one's self. So it happens that one wants to read science and poetry and history and biography, and romances and the daily news.

It is quite impossible to lay down rules for reading that will suit all children, and generally difficult to map out a "course" to be inflexibly pursued by any one. But nearly every mind is or can be interested in something, and a very good plan is to encourage reading concerning the subject the child shows some curiosity about. One thing will certainly lead to another, for nothing is isolated in this world. Try to find out all you can about one thing, one fact in history, one person, the habits of one animal, the truth about one historical character; pursue this, and before you know it you will be a scholar in many things. Do not forget that reading is a means to an end. The indulgence of it is good or bad, according to the end in view. The mind is benefited by pursuing some definite subject until it is understood, but it is apt to be impaired by idly nibbling now and then, tasting a thousand things, and swallowing none; in short, by desultory reading.—The Universalist.

FOR THE TOILET

There is no more useful or elegant article than Ayer's Hair Vigor—the most popular and economical hair-dressing in the market. It causes the hair to grow abundantly and retain the beauty and texture of youth; prevents baldness, heals troublesome humors of the scalp and keeps it clean, cool, and healthy. Both ladies and gentlemen everywhere prefer Ayer's Hair Vigor to any other dressing for the hair. Mrs. Lydia O. E. Pitts-ton, Me., writes: "I Ask For Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time, and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and falling hair, so that I was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor, my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor to any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair." *

THE KANSAS CITY INVESTMENT COMPANY

Invite your attention to the opportunities they are offering to parties to secure first-class homes at small cost—something really good, with merit enough in it to attract your attention if you will only look at it. We have one hundred and fifty choice lots in Kensington Addition, between Collingwood avenue and Fulton street, which we will sell at favorable terms. The streets are graded, sewered and ready for first-class buildings. The property is restricted to buildings costing at least $2,500. You are not required to build at once, but you can secure a lot now, cheaper than you can later. The property is sure to advance in price. Look it over; or better let us show it to you. We have some very nice houses there which we would be pleased to have you inspect. If you want a home we can suit you, for we will build for you a house after plans selected by you. Call at our office for further particulars, and get plat of property.

A POINTER

You want a pointer, of course you do!

We want to give you a pointer, of course we do!

We want to point out some of the points of excellence of Toledo Real Estate, and by giving you a point in this direction may thereby score a point ourselves by securing you as our customer and making various points meet.

POINT No. 1.

Toledo has the best location for a rapid, steady growth of any city in this part of the country. No one can deny this.

POINT No. 2.

Toledo is one of the finest residence cities in the United States. In no other city is conbined the beautiful property in good neighborhoods, fine streets and all conveniences, with as cheap prices for everything as in Toledo.

POINT No. 3.

Toledo has more fine streets than any city of even twice its size, and in a short time will be the finest paved city in the United States.

POINT No. 4.

All things combine to make an investment in Toledo Real Estate now, not only absolutely safe, but also greatly profitable to the investor.

POINT No. 5.

The most desirable property in Toledo for either investment or home-building is

ENGLEWOOD, THE HOME CENTER.

POINT No. 6.

Englewood is situated in the heart of the residence portion of the city, a short distance from the business portion, on the lines of both the Robison's and Consolidated Street Railroads. Has large lots, well drained, situated on wide, well paved streets and avenues.

LOTS FOR $175.00
Small Down Payment---$5 Per Month!
FAIR GROUNDS ADDITION

At No Time in the History of Toledo

Have there been such rare opportunities for the prudent investor to place his money in land as at present. Toledo property is away down at rock bottom figures. Don't fail to take advantage of these prices as they are sure to go up.

Fortunes Have Been Made

By judiciously investing a few dollars in real estate, and the secret of success often buying in a growing locality at a low figure, and holding the property

Why Don't You Buy a Home?

You may try to get around it by saying that you cannot afford it. This is nonsense as every one of us spends more money needlessly every month than the small payment required to secure a lot.

Houses Built on Monthly Payments

With a small down payment. If you are worth $5 a month you are good for a lot in Fair Ground Addition. With the New Depot, Electric Street Ry. Water and City Gas this part of the city is bound to go ahead and prices will be from 50 to 100 per cent. higher a year later.

DEATH BLOW TO PARNELL,

Dillon and O'Brien Both Denounce Him.

The Two Leaders Released from Galway.

Cheering Crowds Follow the Carriages of the Irishmen to the Home of Bishop McCormack.

Dublin, July 30.—Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien were released from Galway jail at 9:25 o'clock this morning. Neither of the gentlemen showed more than slight traces of having suffered from the rigors of confinement, and at the moment of release both seemed to be in the enjoyment of excellent health.

A large crowd made up of adherents of both factions of the Irish national party surrounded the jail, and when the distinguished ex-prisoners made their appearance they were greeted with cheers and rival shouts of "stick to Parnell," and "down with Parnell."

A deputation representing the evicted tenant farmers of Tipperary met the gentlemen as they emerged from the jail and presented them with a number of addresses congratulating them upon their release.

Outside of the jail yard, sitting in an open carriage was Mrs. O'Brien, who, amidst the cheers of the crowd, warmly embraced her husband upon meeting him.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Dillon at once entered the carriage which, followed by the repeated cheers of the crowd, was rapidly driven to the residence of Bishop McCormack. Here a number of the political and personal friends of the Irish leaders were assembled to join their liberated friends at a breakfast given in their honor by the bishop.

A few short addresses suitable to the occasion, but devoid of all reference to existing Irish political troubles, were made, after which some time was spent in pleasant conversation.

Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien will later in the day leave Galway for this city.

There is great anxiety throughout Ireland to know what attitude will be assumed by the two leaders towards the crushing pretensions of McCarthy and Parnell. The opinion prevails in this city that their first efforts at least will be directed to a vigorous attempt to close the breach, the existence of which has worked so much mischief to the Irish cause.

Later—Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien have arrived in this city from Galway. Both gentlemen have authorized the statement that they repudiate Parnell's pretensions to the leadership of the Irish national party. This prompt and decided action has created a profound sensation.

The McCarthyites are jubilant, while even the most enthusiastic and steadfast followers of Mr. Parnell are downcast and faltering.

CAN FIND NO HAVEN.

More Russian Jews Arrive in Boston.

Held by Government Officials to be Sent Back—A Terrible Story of Their Suffering.

Boston, July 30.—The steamer Norseman yesterday brought 159 immigrants of whom 30 were detained on board by the officers of the alien commission for further investigation of their cases before letting them land.

The detained immigrants consist of three families of Russian Jews, and the accounts given by the fathers of two of them are harrowing pictures of the atrocities practiced in Russia against the Hebrews.

Lazarus Mandelsweig, who, with his wife and two children, was sent to Boston by the board of guardians in Hamburg, states that he lived in the town Dom-Bin, on the Russian border, where he owned a house and farm, and made boots and shoes.

He says that any Russian Christian, wishing to possess himself of the property of a Jewish neighbor, can obtain it by paying about one-tenth of its value to the mayor, or government representative, who will then give him an authority to expel the Jewish owner and install himself as proprietor.

There is, moreover, a decree at present in force driving the Jews from the border of Russia into other provinces.

Mandelsweig fell under the ban of both of these laws and was compelled to leave his town after only two days' notice with only what little ready money he had and the few articles of bedding, etc., that he was able to carry.

He found his way to Hamburg and thence to Liverpool and Boston, but probably will be compelled to go back. His wife is a very delicate woman and the return voyage may be a very serious matter for her.

Another of the detained families is that of Moses Katzin, a ladies' hair dresser and wig maker. He has with him his wife, his aged mother, and five children. He comes from Riga, and was given three days to leave his home and all his belongings, which fell into the hands of some envious neighbor. This man was quite well-to-do until the hardship legalized against his race fell upon him, driving against his race fell upon him, driving him penniless and friendless from his home.

PUSHED FROM A TRAIN.

Evidence of a Most Brutal Crime.

Henry Smith, a Bartender, Robbed and Beaten so Badly that He Died.

Chicago, July 30.—Yesterday afternoon just after a south-bound freight train had passed the Hyde Park station, the passengers on the platform at the station saw a man writhing in agony about one hundred yards north of the crossing.

The excited crowd rushed hurriedly to the spot and found the man fearfully mangled, having been crushed by the train which had just passed.

The injured man proved to be Henry Smith, a bartender of this city. He expired a few moments later. The train had hardly come to a standstill, a hundred yards below the station, when a man sprang from one of the box cars and hurried away.

When Smith's body was examined it was found that he had been robbed and the theory is that he was hurled from the train by the unknown thief.

Charged With Cruelty.

New York, July 30.—Capt. J. A. Thompson, of the clipper ship J. F. Chapman, just returned from a voyage around the world, was arrested to-day charged with cruel treatment by Eric Axel, one of his crew. Commissioner Shields held Capt. Thompson in $2,500 for examination.

Whisky Caused It.

Coshocton, O., July 30.—George Baird, a man of family, school teacher and merchant, aged about 26, shot himself through the heart at Jacobsport, this county. Cause, whisky.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

Fifth District Delegates in Quarterly Convention.

The twelfth quarterly session of the Fifth district of the Independent Order of Good Templars is being held in Clark's hall in this city to-day. About one hundred delegates are now present, and more are expected by to-night.

The Fifth district comprises the counties of Lucas, Wood, Fulton, Henry, Defiance and Williams, and is well represented at the session, both by delegates and candidates.

This morning was devoted to the opening exercises and the appointing of the committee on credentials.

This afternoon the degrees will be conferred on about sixty candidates.

The order gives an excursion on the steamer Idlewild to-night, and every effort is being made to entertain the visiting delegates. The officers of the order are: D. C. T., T. J. Cavenaugh, Walbridge; D. Couns., B. L. Abbott, Bowling Green; D. V. T., Mrs. N. S. Hatfield, West Milgrove; D. S. of J. T., Mrs. B. P. Sears, Bowling Green; D. Sec., C. E. Griffeth, Toledo; D. T., H. F. Vanfleet Waterville; D. Chap., E. W. Bebner, Milbury; D. M., H. L. Hinkley, Prairie Depot; D. G., Alice Boyd, Bowling Green; D. S., Richard Crane, Walbridge; D. D. M., Mrs. E. Schnider, Waterville; D. A. Sec., Miss L. Kesson, Pemberville; P. D. C. T., Harry B. White, Toledo.

FLEEING FROM THE FEVER.

Sad Scenes Enacted in the Topolobampo Country.

The Thermometer Has Been at 145 Degrees for the Past Two Months.

Delphos, Ks., July 30.—Ezra Comfort and family arrived from Topolobampo yesterday, having hurried home to escape the tropic fever.

The 18 year-old son of Mr. Comfort was stricken before starting and died an hour after reaching here.

Another son died at the colony.

They went out in April and report much suffering among the colonists.

The thermometer has been 145 degrees for two months, and it is almost impossible to obtain good water.

Many have died.

FOSTORIA NOTES.

Wandering Peddlers in Jail Under Suspicion.

Fostoria, July 30.—Three strangers selling new ready made clothing on the streets were given chase, and one caught and lodged in jail yesterday on the suspicion that the goods were stolen, and will be retained until communication can be had with other towns.

The lamp and shade works will turn out a beautiful new specialty next week. Fine glass ware, lined with gold; an invention of Nicholas Kopp.

The Fostoria glass works have at last decided to remove their plant from this city to Moundville, W. Va. They employ about 500 men.

Mrs. F. S. Williams, the lawful wife of the Williams whose dual life was exposed at Findlay, Monday, is a much respected lady resident in this city, and is nearly crazed over her husband's duplicity. She will probably sue for divorce.

William Jones, a boarding house keeper, was arrested yesterday on a charge of picking pockets of two of his boarders.

ANOTHER BRUTAL FATHER.

Thomas Skahill Gets a Good Dose of Workhouse.

Thomas Skahill, a brakeman on the Ohio Central railroad, and living near the corner of Fassett and Miami streets, in East Toledo, was arrested Tuesday and tried in police court this morning, for neglecting and cruelly abusing his three small children. Skahill only works about half of his time, and is drunk the other half. When he draws his money he does not give his wife enough to live on, and last week she had to take the children to one of the neighbors to be fed, there being nothing to eat in the house.

Judge Snis, before passing the sentence on Skahill, gave him a chance to secure some one to sign a bond for him, that he would provide for his children. This he would not do and the judge gave him three months in the work house at hard labor.

HOLD THE STOLEN SEAT.

Republicans Refuse to Allow Warren His Seat.

The Attorney General Has Not the Sand to Render an Opinion Against the Gang Idea.

Columbus, July 30.—Hyatt, the republican beneficiary of the republican frauds in the thirty-third district, has let go, after illegally drawing $1,100 from the state treasury, but his party associates in the state board of equalization still stand by the outrage.

At yesterday's session a motion to take from the table the statement of Hyatt and a resolution to refer the same to a committee for investigation prevailed.

Several motions followed, but the republicans, having one majority, by a solid vote forced through a proposition indinitely postponing the whole subject.

Thus they escaped the unpleasant facts that would develop in an investigation and at the same time continue, by their support of a fraud, to keep the people's legally elected representative out of office.

Attorney General Watson, to whom the question has been referred by the governor, hesitates to give an opinion, probably because he is unwilling to sanction the outrageous methods adopted to shut out a man whose election is conceded, even by republicans.

The board reduced Muskingum county farm lands from 8 per cent., as reported from the committee, to 10 per cent. Portage county farm lands were reduced to a total of 15 per cent., while Eaton, Preble county, received a reduction of 3 per cent.

The Fifty-seventh Did Not Lose a Flag

To the Editor:—In yesterday's issue of the Toledo Bee, seventh column, first page, this item appears: "Will give back the flag." The fifty-seventh Ohio regiment for gallantry of its officers and line was equal to any other Ohio regiment. When the battle of Gettysburgh was fought, the fifty-seventh Ohio, in Whitelaw Reids history of Ohio in the war, volume 2, page 342 to 347 inc usive, will show the regiment to have been connected with the operations before and at seige of Vicksburgh. The fifty-seventh was never in the eastern army, and could not have lost a flag at Gettysburgh. I make the correction in justice to the fifth-seventh for its officers and men, of whom I know many, were true soldiers and the few that yet survive are good citizens.

Respectfully, etc.,
P. W. Stumm,
Late R. L. W. seventy-fourth O. V. I.
Paulding, July 29.

Getting Ready to Return Home.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 30.—President Harrison continues to invest his surplus cash in Indianapolis real estate, his last venture being the purchase of the block at the corner of Pennsylvania and Georgia streets from W. H. H. Miller, the consideration being $30,000.

Will Settle With the Injured.

Dayton, O., July 30.—Superintendent Neilson, of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, held a conference here last evening with the road physicians and attorneys and directed that advances looking to a compromise be made towards families of the killed and to the 40 persons who were injured in the excursion wreck at Middletown Saturday night.

New York Republicans.

New York, July 30.—The republican state committee met this morning at 11:30 o'clock. John Quackenbush was elected chairman. Rochester was selected as the place for holding the state convention. The convention will be held on Wednesday, September 9.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

What is Going on in Various Circles.

Arrangements for Detroit Next Week—Cinders Picked Up Along the Line.

The all absorbing theme with passenger men at present is G. A. R. business. They are all after it, and representatives of the different roads are hustling as they never hustled before.

All lines running into Toledo, beginning next Saturday, will run solid trains through to Detroit, to accommodate passengers from all points out of Toledo.

On Monday at 4 p. m. a special train, consisting of six coaches, will carry the Forsyth post to Detroit, via the Lake Shore.

On Tuesday morning at 5:30 Volunteer post and ex-prisoners of war will go in extra coaches attached to a regular train on the Michigan Central.

On the same day Toledo post will go in extra coaches, attached to a regular train on the Michigan Central, which leaves at 7:30 a. m.

The various roads have prepared to accommodate the public, and a train can be had to return at most any hour in the day.

The Ann Arbor Arbitration.

The Ann Arbor arbitration board met to-day at 2 o'clock, to consider Manager Ashley statement, which is as complicated as lengthy. It embraced tabulated statements purporting to show the financial condition of the road to be in such a state that to comply with the demands of the men would mean bankruptcy.

Eastern Shipments.

The total shipment east out of Chicago during the week by all-rail amounted to 46,384 tons, which was 9,777 tons less than the corresponding week of a year ago, and 831 tons more than the shipment of a week previous. The following is the tonnage secured by the various lines during the week:

Road.	Tons.	Road.	Tons.
L S & M S	7,480	Erie lines	5,119
Michigan Central	7,345	C & G T	4,305
Panhandle	5,443	Wabash	2,901
N Y C & St L	5,480	B & O	2,600
P, Ft W & C	5,443

Shipments of flour, grain and provisions by Central Traffic lines amounted to 18,911 tons, compared with 15,499 tons in the previous week and 24,789 tons in the corresponding week of 1890. The percentage of this class of traffic secured by each line is as follows:

Road.	Per cent past wk.	Per cent cor. wk in 1890
Michigan Central	22.5	14.1
P., Ft. W. & C.	18.6	13.7
N. Y. C. & St. L.	14.2	14.2
L. S. & M. S.	13.8	21.1
Chicago & Grand Trunk	13.2	21.1
Baltimore & Ohio	9.5	10.0
P., C. & St. L.	4.2	5.8

Shipments by the lake routes were 78,752 tons, of which 39,820 tons was corn, 24,337 tons wheat, and 9,131 tons oats.

The B. & O. and Tiffin

Tiffin, O., July 30.—(Special)—At various times during the past three years rumors have prevailed that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company contemplated removing their shops to this city from Chicago Junction and making this the termination of the two divisions.

Since the completion of the "cut-off" from Chicago Junction to Akron and the establishing of the new line as their main route between Chicago, Pittsburg and Baltimore, these rumors have been revived and are assuming a more reasonable shape.

By the new line Tiffin becomes the halfway point between Pittsburg and Chicago, and for that reason the most desirable point for the location of the division headquarters and the shops. All the ground that the company may desire will be donated and other substantial inducements offered by the city of Tiffin.

Harvest Excursion Rates.

The Western Passenger association met yesterday in special session and took final action on harvest excursion rates for 1891. The dates decided upon were August 25, September 15 and 29, which corresponds with the dates fixed by trans-Missouri lines. Tickets will be sold at one and one-third fare for the round trip.

The complaint against the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City road for transferring baggage of through passengers from its station in Kansas City to western connections, was dismissed by Chairman Finley, who held that the road was justified in so doing, as the defense showed that the road had not yet secured an entrance to the union depot and was compelled to take this step to compete with other lines.

Railway Clerks' Meeting.

The railway clerks met at Friendship hall last evening. A committee was appointed to draft amendments to the national constitution, to be submitted during the national convention to be held in St. Louis, September 1.

During this convention, an employment bureau will be instituted, with general headquarters at Boston. The meeting is to be an important one.

The resignation of Secretary C. A. Pero was accepted. His successor will be appointed at the next meeting.

The association at present has 140 members enrolled.

The committee appointed on permanent location recommended Friendship hall and the report was adopted.

That Reported Consolidation.

Boston, July 30.—The following has been received from Vice-President Shaughnessy, of the Canadian Pacific railroad, with regard to the reported consolidation of the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk, Boston & Maine and the Vanderbilt interests by Director George H. Harris, the American director of that road:

"Montreal, July 26.—I have been tied down here since Mr. Van Horne left for England, but Kirkpatrick and I have decided to pay you a visit in the course of the next ten days, for the purpose of considering the desirability of acquiring all the rest of the railroads in New England, or perhaps in the United States, so that the whole thing may be closed up in a newspaper paragraph."

Looking to a Settlement.

Superintendent Neilson, of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, held a conference at Dayton last evening with the road physicians and attorneys and directed that advances looking to a compromise be made toward families of the killed and to the 40 people who were injured in the excursion wreck at Middletown Saturday night.

General Change.

The following change of officers goes into effect on the Georgia Central August 1: W. W. Starr, superintendent of the main line, to succeed H. R. Dill, resigned; D. D. Curran, superintendent of the southwestern division, to succeed J. C. McKenzie, resigned; offices of superintendents of transportation and terminals abolished, the superintendent to have charge of all real estate and personal property of the company.

Cinders.

General Manager Ferris of the T. & O C., is in Kenton to-day.

G. G. Grund, paymaster of the T. & O C., went to Banzonia, Mich., to-day.

J. F. Flanders, superintendent of the Mackinaw, went out over the line to-day.

The Grultli Society will run an excursion to Cedar Point via the Lake Shore August 23.

F. M. Snavely, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago & Northwestern, is in the city to-day.

F. S. Arnable, comptroller of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, is in Detroit on business.

The Fostoria and Tiffin committees of the Central Traffic Association will meet in Sandusky to-morrow.

Passenger Conductor J. B. Park, of the Mackinaw, is off and Homer Deev is running in his place. J. B. Cooper is running train extra.

Chairman Finley yesterday handed down a decision dismissing the charges preferred by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe against the Rock Island.

The train dispatchers of the Mackinaw are taking their vacation. F. Allen has just returned from Ridgeway, Mich., and T. S. Gribbs and wife went to Fountain City, Ind. W. D. Stearns, chief dispatcher, next week will join his wife at Ottawa Beach, Mich.

The Herald a Defendant.

New York, July 30.—The Herald has been indicted by the grand jury for publishing an account of the quadruple electrocution at Sing Sing.

CINCINNATI REPUBLICANS.

Two Full Tickets in the Field and the War Grows Interesting.

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—The following is the ticket in full nominated by the Union veterans, republicans, yesterday:

Senators, George Weber, Erie E. Jewett, Peter F. Stryker.

Representatives, Amzi McGill, John B. Bobe, A. J. Biggs, Isaac C. Hart, Joseph Piesche, William Snelt, James A. Graft, Dr. S. D. Spence, Emil Berger, R. T. Barton.

Common pleas judges, General A. M. Warner, Chris Von Segger, M. L. Buchwalter, Charles Evans, S. N. Maxwell; treasurer, Charles F. Muth; prosecutor, John C. Schwartz; recorder, W. H. McDowell; clerk, James B. Wilson; commissioner, Frederick Bader; board of control, A. H. Mattox, Gazzam Gano, William Miller, E. H. Greist; infirmary director, Edward Diss.

The republicans last night selected delegates to their convention to be held to-day and there is much ill-feeling in the party of the gigantic split.

The result of the caucuses is claimed to be in favor of Foraker.

AGAINST THE GOVERNOR.

Auditor Vordtriede Rules in the Ashley Tax Case,

Holding That There Was Evasion—Full Text of the Decision—Examination of Books Now in Progress.

County Auditor Vordtriede rendered a decision this morning in the Ashley tax matter which was argued before him early this week. The argument was based on the ground that the auditor had no authority to hold an investigation or look up Gov. Ashley's financial possessions unless he had evaded or made fraudulent returns.

After duly considering the evidence produced and the very able and exhaustive argument of counsel, it seems to me that the only point upon which a decision is necessary is—should the failure of Gov. Ashley to make any return of taxable personal property during the last six years be considered as an evasion to make such returns and therefore authorizing the county auditor under the provisions of section 2781, as construed by the supreme court. In the testimony of Gov. Ashley we find the following:

Q.—I will ask you to state to the auditor whether the question of whether a return was due from you in this respect of personal property—ever occurred to you?

A.—It never did. I had no personal property here. I supposed all I had to pay on was real estate. My library was burned up and I returned all the property that I supposed was subject to taxation.

Q.—I will ask you whether the question ever occurred to your mind—whether you ever thought about it—during those five years?

A.—I did not. I had nothing to think about in that direction; I hadn't made any such returns for a number of years.

Q.—I would ask you to state whether during any of the five years that I have mentioned, you have purposely or intentionally omitted to make any return for taxation?

A.—I didn't suppose that I was under any obligation to make any, and, indeed, I never thought about it.

Q.—So you made no inquiry or paid no attention as to whether any blanks were left at your house for the purpose of listing personal property?

A.—Well, I knew I hadn't any personal property after my library burned up here that could possibly be subject to taxation, or that I supposed could be subjected to taxation, so I never thought about it.

Without stopping to quote the exact language of Mr. Barnum, the assessor, in his testimony, I will simply say that it appears from the testimony that personal property tax blanks were left at the regularly acknowledged residence of Gov. Ashley with his name written in the notice. Until in the year 1888 the name Emma J. Ashley was substituted by some member of the family for that of J. M. Ashley, and that from this time on the blanks were annually addressed in the name of Emma J. Ashley in accordance with a request of some member of the family.

Mr. Chas. S. Ashley states in his affidavit the following: Since the 20th of September, 1885, I have resided in Toledo, and have had charge of my father's real estate and other business interests of like character. I have settled his bills for the fashion of his property, and all notices requiring his attention to matters of that kind have been referred to me, so far as I know. During all this period I do not remember having seen or heard of a single notice respecting his personal tax. Nor do I believe that there was any such notice ever left for his attention by any assessor.

As some personal property tax blanks which had been left at Gov. Ashley's acknowledged place of residence and filled out, were produced and identified by the assessor I think it is safe to presume that Mr. Chas. H. Ashley's memory failed him.

With these facts before us I think there is but one conclusion that can be arrived at, when the test laid down by the supreme court, in the case of Ratterman, tr. v. Ingalls, is applied.

The court says: "It is the duty of the resident property owner to return his taxable property for taxation. In the performance of this duty he must use diligence and care in acquiring knowledge from sources where information is obtainable. If he uses such care, and acts honestly, making his return in accordance with his best knowledge and belief, after using all reasonable means to obtain an intelligent belief, his return will not be false within the meaning of section 2781. But this belief must result from a careful effort to perform the duty. Blind reliance upon the indolent belief that one's property is not taxable, without investigation, inquiry or disclosure to the taxing officer, would show culpable negligence, as fatal to the claim of good faith and innocent purpose, as would a direct intent to deceive."

We find nowhere in Mr. Ashley's testimony anything which would tend to show that he tried to inform himself as to whether his holdings were taxable or not, he simply repeats that he supposed he had no personal property that was subject to taxation. Counsel for Gov. Ashley lay considerable stress upon the fact that no personal property tax blanks were left at the acknowledged residence of Gov. Ashley during several of the years covered by this investigation and that the assessor himself made no returns for Mr. Ashley for three years.

I think that when the blank for the year 1888 which was left at the residence with J. M. Ashley's name changed by some one of the family by substituting the name of Mrs. Emma J. Ashley, and the assessor was thereby led to believe that Mr. Ashley was not here at all, he was justified in not making any return for Mr. Ashley himself.

Counsel for Mr. Ashley argued very earnestly that if Gov. Ashley is compelled to make proper return of his personal property it will result in almost irreparable damage to the Governor. I fail to see the force of this argument. I have yet to learn of the first case where a person's business was injured by his making a proper return for taxation.

In concluding I would say that in arriving at that decision that I have jurisdiction over the matter under consideration in this city, I wish it to be understood that I have the fullest faith and confidence in the truth of the statement made by Gov. Ashley. Gov. Ashley has been a resident of Ohio for a long term of years, is a man of great intelligence and broad information, possessing business qualifications of the highest order, and believe that now, after his attention has been called to his neglect of the last few years in discharging his duties to the state, he will embrace the first opportunity to make good any loss which may have occurred to the state by reason of this neglect.

I hold in this case that there is much neglect in the eyes of the law in the omission to return property for taxation, that it "shows culpable negligence" as fatal to the claim of good faith and innocent purpose, as would a direct intent to deceive.

When Mr. Vordtriede had concluded, Gov. Ashley signified his willingness to submit his books, showing transactions made in the time specified in the charges, and permit a thorough inspection of every deal.

The books were laid before the auditor this afternoon, and the investigation is on.

Hotter the Weather Bigger the Proof.

As the weather grows warm, the sale of James Pyle's Pearline Washing Compound rapidly increases. This proves that many women recognize the fact that Pearline makes washing and cleaning very much easier than when done with the ordinary means. Proves also that summer clothing, being of delicate texture and color, will not stand the rough usage necessary when washed with soap, and establishes the fact that PEARLINE, in doing away with the rubbing, lessens the wear and tear and fills a very important place. Delightful for bathing in fresh or salt water. Its ingredients render it harmless to the most delicate skin. Especially during the hot weather it is to your advantage to use Pearline, and only humane to supply your servants with it, and thus lighten their labors; besides you insure much better results.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous.

The Bee

The BEE will give the people all of the news and advertise their wants. Having a circulation much greater than any other Toledo daily paper it is much the best advertising medium. It secures quicker and better returns. Consult your interests by advertising in the BEE when you want anything or have anything to sell.

Parties advertising in these columns and having the answers addressed in care of THE BEE, will please ask for check to enable them to get their letters, as none will be delivered except on presentation of check. All answers to advertisements should be inclosed in envelopes.

Advertisements of Wants, For Rent, For Sale, Lost, Found, etc., not exceeding four lines (28 words), will be inserted in these columns for 50 cents a week, two weeks $1; one month $2. For one insertion 20 cents, two times 20 cents, three times 30 cents, and four times 40 cents will be charged. Over four lines at proportionate rates, payable in advance. Parties desiring situations will be given three insertions free.

No credit is allowed for advertisements ordered in for a certain number of times and stopped before expiration.

Make Your Headquarters With Us!

G A R

There will be over 200,000 visitors in DETROIT during the G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT. We hope that all our friends and patrons will be with the crowd. Ample provision has been made for the proper care of the great numbers that will visit us. In order that visitors may have the privilege of enjoying all the hospitality that a METROPOLITAN CITY can offer, we extend to all a hearty invitation to make our store their headquarters. OUR STORE is the most centrally located in the city and is convenient to all the STREET CAR LINES. Letters and packages may be addressed to our care. During the Encampment we shall resolve our large staff of clerks into a "BUREAU OF INFORMATION," and it will be our endeavor to assist in every way in our power all those who may visit us at 140 WOODWARD AVE.

INTELLIGENT PROOFREADERS.

How Four Eminent Scientists Were Caught in Their Own Traps.

Prof. Carl Vogt, of Germany, the well-known scientist, tells the following amusing story anent a discussion of the question whether a proof-reader should have knowledge of the contents of an article that passes through his hands: "When Edward Desor and myself were working with Agassiz at Neuenburg, my friend Desor was charged with describing certain fossil fish after the latter's notes. Desor used to dictate these descriptions to a young man who pretended to know all about it, while Desor counseled him to consider himself merely an unconscious tool. To sound the knowledge of his clerk my colleague one day, under my connivance, dictated to his secretary the most absurd nonsense by interlacing the description of some fossil fish with the particular statement. This remarkable specimen differs from all others in the abnormal fact of having its head in the same spot where the others' tails are found.' The clerk took everything down as it came from the lips of my collaborator without rebelling. Desor, accidentally being called away, forgot his trick and the manuscript went to the printing office. The proof was read by Dr. G., who had expressly been appointed to this post by Agassiz, and besides intrusted with the compilation of this 'Nomenclator.' Desor and myself read the second proof; so did Agassiz, who placed his imprimatur upon them, but none of us four took notice of the nonsense it contained. The whole was printed, and only then, when the series was about to be sent to the subscribers, my friend Desor remembered the trick he had played on his amanuensis. A special card had to be inserted in place of the objectionable passage. The conclusion may easily be drawn—four proof-readers had read the article without consciously taking knowledge of its contents."

FIGHTING LOCUSTS.

Queer Legal and Ecclesiastical Procedure in France 300 Years Ago.

The appearance of locusts in southern Italy and the country near the mouth of the Rhone reminds the correspondent of a German paper that this is by no means the first time that the latter district has been visited by them. The local history of Arles mentions between the years 1545-76 several processes at law against the locusts; for at that time the custom still survived of subjecting animals and even inanimate objects to trial, sentence and the ban of the church, just as if they were human beings.

In 1565, when the locusts laid waste the region in question, the people were in despair, and fothwith demanded their expulsion. Accordingly a summons calling upon the insect to appear before the court of the "officia" was issued and proclaimed throughout the fields around Arles. As in due time the locusts, who it may be presumed were wary of justice, failed to appear, a well-known advocate, named Martin, was appointed to plead for them "in absentia." The defense was admirable. The locusts, said Maitre Martin, were but instruments in the hand of God for the punishment of those who refused to pay the tithes due to the church, and to lead them to penitence and the renewed fulfillment of their duty.

He submitted that the curse should not be pronounced against the "defendants," but that they should be regarded as blessings in disguise and suffered in patience till God should remove them. But this pious defense failed. The locusts were formally cursed and called upon to leave the country without delay. The record adds that notice of appeal was given against this decision, but that before the day of hearing arrived the locusts, probably finding their quarters no longer safe, had flown to seek fresh fields.
